

BREMEN'S CAPTURE DENIED

GERMANS DRIVEN OUT OF DELVILLE WOODS

CANADIAN AUTHORITIES SAY GERMAN UNDERSEA LINER NOT TAKEN

Halifax, July 28—Nothing is known here of the Bremen story further than the report from New York.

The above telegraphic dispatch alludes to the report that the German submarine Bremen had been captured by the British and brought into Halifax harbor.

Portland, Me., July 28—A telegram saying the German underwater merchantman Bremen had been captured and was being towed into Halifax was received in this city from a Canadian source which was believed to be reliable.

Ottawa, Ont., July 28—The naval department denied today that there is any foundation for the story published in New York that the German super-submarine Bremen has been captured and taken into Halifax.

St. John, N. B., July 28—J. D. Hasen, minister of marine and fisheries, today denied reports that the German undersea liner Bremen had been captured and taken into Halifax. Halifax reports received also declared the Bremen was not there.

New York, July 28—Another circumstantial report regarding the whereabouts of the German merchant super-submarine Bremen, long expected at some American port, is that the ship has been captured by British patrolling squadrons and is being towed up in the northwest arm of the harbor of Halifax, N. S.

The report of the capture, which is published here today, is given in a letter said to have been written by the secretary of a high Canadian official to a business man of this city. The letter is declared to have been mailed from Buffalo, New York, two days ago and therefore could not have been subjected to the scrutiny of the Canadian censor.

The letter was written in confidence, it is stated, but the information it contained was divulged by the recipient to a friend in the course of an argument as to whether or not the Bremen could pass through the British barrier. The letter says:

"You seem in New York to be worried about the Bremen. There is really no cause for worry, for at the present time she is tied up in what we call the Northwest arm in the harbor of Halifax and is being well taken care of."

Telegrams of inquiry sent to Ottawa and Halifax have not as yet brought any information of the reported capture of the merchant submarine.

The Bremen, the second unit of Germany's proposed merchant submarine fleet, has been due for some days in an American port. Private information was to the effect that she had been ordered to make New York harbor, if possible, but in the event that this was not feasible she was to go to any other American port that presented a favorable opportunity for entrance.

Important mail for bankers here and probably for the merchant submarine Deutschland was said to be aboard. The long delay of the Deutschland now at Baltimore, in leaving for home, is said in some quarters to have been due to the fact that she was waiting for further information contained in the Bremen's mail budget.

Many Die From Terrific Heat

Outlook For Irish Home Rule Seems Hopeless

London—John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, has waged a courageous and unrelenting fight for Irish home rule as a member of Parliament.

There seems to be no hope at Westminster of a resurrection of the Irish "settlement", although Lloyd George is believed to be still making advances to the various parties to see if they will confer again.

At a recent meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party, at which John Redmond presided, the Rev. William J. Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin, issued a letter to the public declaring that the country now faces "a most awful prospect."

He predicted that unless there is a change in the situation, the home rule cause in Ireland will lead to disaster.

Must Support Victim's Family

New York, July 28.—That they shall support the family of a strike breaker they admitted having beaten and shall obtain employment for him when he is well enough to work again, was the unusual sentence imposed upon two Brooklyn men by Judge Fawcett today. During a strike of painters and paperhangers last spring Charles Dietz was attacked and so badly pummeled he is still a physical wreck. Daniel Bronstein and Harry Swinoff were arrested and appeared in court today. They pleaded guilty to assault.

which, it is said, has been used in increasing quantities in the past few years.

German Soldiers Well Clothed And Well Fed; In Good Spirits

With the German Army on the Russian front by Courier to Berlin, via London, July 28.—The Russian efforts to break the German lines at various points on this front, which the Associated Press correspondent has had an unusually favorable opportunity of inspecting personally in the last few days, have neither affected the front, nor—what is perhaps equally important—the morale of the German troops.

The correspondent has viewed the great sectors of the front from south of Kekau to a point well south of Friedrichstadt, has stood in the trenches amid the devastation of drum fire of but a few hours before and has talked freely with the men engaged. He has also mingled unconcernedly with the troops behind the front and had endeavored in every way possible to find some indication of a falling off in the morale of the fighting spirit. At one barracks the commander said to the soldiers: "Here is an American newspaper correspondent, tell him all he wants. I am leaving him here alone and shall not try to find out what questions he asks nor what you told him."

The commander and all other officers then left the barracks and the soldiers answered every question put (Continued On Page Eight)

Austrians Agree To Polish Relief Plan

Washington, D. C., July 28.—Informal assurances that Austria-Hungary is disposed to respond favorably to President Wilson's personal appeal for permission for shipment of American relief supplies to Poles in territory held by Austrian forces have been given personally by Foreign Minister Burian, to Ambassador Penfield.

The state department also received today from Ambassador Page, the British foreign office, a statement of Great Britain's willingness to permit importations of food stuffs to be administered by a commission appointed by President Wilson, providing the German and Austrian occupying armies would not seize or remove products of the occupied territory. The condition, it is feared, may block the negotiations.

S. S. McClure Must Leave England

London—S. S. McClure, the American publisher, who was detained by the British authorities on his arrival at Liverpool, on board the American line steamship Philadelphia, must return to the United States on board the same vessel.

In the meanwhile Mr. McClure is sojourning at an unnamed watering place inland, "for his health", according to a statement made by government officials today.

The British house office declined to grant a permit for Mr. McClure to stay in England. It was learned that the deportation order was issued because of what the British authorities termed "his activities while in Germany."

Mr. Henry Simons, of 1323 Mount street, who has been very ill with heart trouble, is still in a dangerous condition.

BRITISH PATROL BOAT SUNK IN BATTLE

(BULLETIN)

Berlin, July 28—(By Wireless To Sayville) --- In a naval battle between several German submarines and three British patrol boats off the coast of Scotland one of the British vessels was sunk, according to a report received by the Deutsche Newspaper Handelsblad and telegraphed to the Overseas News Agency.

The despatch continues: "The patrol boats were the Nellie Nutton, Onward and Eva. The Nellie Nutton was sunk. Three members of her crew were killed and the remaining eleven sailors were rescued by a Dutch fishing boat and landed in a Scotch harbor. Three of the eleven men rescued later died in consequence of their wounds. The other two patrol boats are supposed to have been lost with the whole of their crews."

EPIDEMIC CONTINUES UNCHECKED

New York, July 28.—The epidemic of infantile paralysis still is unchecked, the daily report of the health department shows. The bulletin issued today discloses a slight increase in deaths and a small decrease in the number of new cases. During the 24 hours' period ending at 10 a. m. today, there were 134 new cases and 35 fatalities from the disease reported in the five boroughs of New York City.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE WITH BUTCHER KNIFE

Ellyria, O., July 28.—Mrs. Anna Busch became suddenly insane and attempted to commit suicide with a butcher knife today when officers came to take three three of her children to the Children's Home at Oberlin, and a fourth child to the Gates Hospital for Crippled Children. Her husband died two weeks ago.

NO RELIEF PROMISED

New York, July 28.—After more than two weeks of torrid weather, with greater humidity than at any time since 1896, relief came today to sweltering New Yorkers. The long, muggy period ended with a drop of 37 per cent in humidity and a breeze. The hot wave is only temporarily side-tracked, the weather man said today.

Chicago, July 28.—No relief from the excessive heat wave which has gripped practically the entire country, was held out by officials of the weather bureau today. Chicago, St. Louis, and Milwaukee, with temperatures at 84, were the hottest cities in the country at 7 a. m. Winnemucca, Nevada, with a temperature of 36, was the coolest spot.

Six more deaths in Chicago due to the heat were reported to the coroner before 9 a. m. today. Last night was the hottest in history of Chicago. The temperature was 90 at midnight. The temperature rose rapidly today, reaching 92 at 9 a. m., one degree warmer than the same period yesterday and going to 93 at 9:30.

Southeasterly winds, carrying practically no cooling effect, prevailed.

Workmen in the rolling mills of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, in East Chicago, and the Interstate Iron and Steel Company in Chicago, refused to go to work on account of the intense heat this morning and as a result both mills were closed until the present period of hot weather is over. The men participating in the protest numbered 2,100. Temperatures taken in the rolling mills a few days ranged from 140 to 160 degrees.

Filful winds from the lake gave Chicago and other lake cities some relief today, the temperature at noon being 85, a few degrees under yesterday's mark at (Continued From Page One)

SUFFRAGISTS PASS CANDY TO MEN

New York, July 28.—Committees representing the woman suffrage party wooed the New York commuter today by distributing suffrage leaflets and boxes of candy at all railroad stations in the city. The suffragists said they had made the candy themselves and could vouch for its goodness. There were twelve pieces of candy in each box, one for each of the suffrage states. Each box also contained a verse naming the present suffrage states and ending with the declaration that it will soon require a larger box to "put our suffrage candies in."

SERBS OPEN OFFENSIVE ON BULGARS

London, July 28.—The furious battle along the British front in the Somme region is being continued without pause and according to the British war office with success for the British. They claim the clearing of the Brandenburger from the important position of Delville Wood, near Longueval, giving General Haig's forces complete possession of the wood and declare progress also was made in Longueval and near Pozieres.

Berlin fails to concede a British gain of ground at any of the places mentioned, despite British attacks in strong force with hand to hand fighting at some points along the line.

In the eastern war theatre, battles of almost equal intensity and extending over a vast front are in progress. The Russian onset proved too much for the Germans under General Von Linsingen southeast of Vladimir-Volynski, where the German's lines were penetrated near Svinichy, but German counter-attacks were immediately launched and are proceeding.

North of Brody where heavy fighting is taking place along the Sonevka and Bolderovka rivers in the course of a Russian attempt to envelop Brody the Petrograd war office reports further progress north of the Pinsk region the Russian offensive is of especial violence. Berlin reports six attacks by two Russian army corps east of Gorodische, with the battle continued after Russian failure to gain ground in these assaults. Northwest of Liochovichi two Russian divisions repeatedly surged forward, the tide of battle several times ebbing and flowing.

On the Balkan front the only war area in which comparatively quietude has prevailed the Serbians are reported on the offensive. They have attacked Macedonian positions held by the Bulgarians and, according to a Saloniki despatch, have occupied a series of heights six miles south of the Greek frontier. Berlin reports considerable losses for the attacking forces.

Oh, gee! Folks wanted warm weather. Now they got it and they're kickin'. What's a weather prophet goin' to do? It's too hot anyway to dig around' and get cooler weather, so I'll just let 'er go for to-morrow. Here it is: Ohio—Fair. Continued warm tonight and Saturday. Kentucky—Fair, continued warm tonight and Saturday. West Virginia—Generally fair, continued warm tonight and Saturday. Warmer tonight in east portion.

TREND OF WAR UNFAVORABLE TO GERMANY

New York, July 28.—The end of the second year of the Great War finds the Germans in possession of more of Europe than they held on August 1, 1915, the first anniversary of the start of the great conflict.

This is practically the only respect in which the situation is more favorable to them. Russia, her vast man power at least organized and furnished with implements of destruction in plenty, it battering the Teuton lines on the east and has already won back 4500 square miles. Great Britain boasts five million men in her army and navy. France fights as strongly as ever. Italy is increasing her formidableness.

Austria appears to be losing heart and efficiency, Bulgaria refuses to send reinforcements to the west or Russian fronts.

Turkey shows slight offensive power. The British navy, following the much disputed naval battle of Jutland, still shuts off Germany from use of the sea. One merchant submarine has reached America, but the supplies (Continued On Page Eight)

Willing To Accept Sum Offered By The N. & W.

Bertha Howard, administratrix of the estate of the late Andy Howard, section hand, who was killed by a Norfolk and Western freight train, near Davis station, July 1, 1916, was authorized to make a settlement with the railway company Friday by Probate Judge Thomas C. Beatty. Mrs. Howard in her petition said that she believed it to be for the best interests of the estate to accept the amount offered by the railway company.

Movie Thrills Eclipsed When Jack Hood Pulls Off Fake Paint and Falls Into River.

"Jineral" Sheridan Has Heart Disease Over A Cruel Joke

If a fine were plastered against those persons who pull off practical jokes, John McMillan, superintendent of the Portsmouth Gas Co. and F. W. Sheridan, advertising manager of the Daily Times, would use their entire weight and inches with the court to hand out a fine to Jack Hood, advertising manager of the Anderson Bros. Co. that would require three years salary to settle.

It all happened in the wee small hours of Friday morning. Messrs. McMillan and Sheridan, together with the latter's son and heir, Donald Sheridan, were invited guests at the Prof. Appel and Jack Hood camp, located along the Seaboard river on the old Nichols farm, nine miles north of the city. The guests arrived at 7:30 p. m. Thursday night and needless to add they were accorded a hearty reception, being treated to as fine a fish dinner as was ever cooked on shore.

Mr. Hood, who has not shaved for two weeks, looks like the pictures of Robinson Crusoe and his parrot. Of course the visitors inquired concerning the state of health of all persons connected with the camp and were rather surprised to learn that Mr. Hood had suffered two fainting spells during the day.

That was simply "Jack's" way of baiting the visitors on and they took hook, line and sinker and went to the bottom.

After a while—about 12 o'clock Messrs. Appel and Hood, accompanied by Messrs. McMillan and Sheridan, went to "run" the trout lines. There are eight lines spanning the Seaboard and needless to add considerable time was consumed in making the run. It was probably one o'clock, Friday morning, when the return trip was completed. Prof. Appel, who next to teaching would rather fish was busy placing the fish in the live box, when Hood pulled off his prearranged stunt. The water was deep along the fish box, and of course McMillan and Sheridan never once suspected that Hood had been stringing them.

Mr. Hood, who was sitting on the middle seat of the boat, looked up into the faces of the visitors and exclaimed with deadly paler and much paler: "Fellows, I am getting sick again—oh-h-h." With this he keeled over the side of the boat and disappeared like a rock. McMillan grabbed Sheridan around the neck and yelled with all the power of his lungs: "For heaven's sake, catch Hood, catch Hood." Both the visitors were on the verge of jumping into the Seaboard to render aid to the alleged sick man, who soon bobbed up to the surface with a grin on his bewildered face that would turn a chessy out green with envy. Then it flashed over the dull minds of the visitors that they had been victimized.

But it was a severe, nevertheless. Prof. Appel, who of course was in on the joke, almost strangled to death from laughter, but McMillan and Sheridan were not restored to normal for some time.

Oliver L. Prediger is the third member of the camping party, and he, too, has developed a great growth of whiskers. He sat on the bank while Jack was pulling off his base job and guffawed until morning, without a single interruption.

The Appel-Hood camp will probably be disconnected Saturday.

MERCURY TAKES DROP; MANY HEAT VICTIMS

It was ten degrees cooler Friday than on Thursday, the maximum temperature today being 90, according to Weather Observer Dr. Harry Schirrmann. The minimum today was 67. The mercury touched 100 Thursday.

N. & W. Freight Conductor J. W. Adams of Seventeenth and Offshore streets, was overcome with heat Thursday evening while on his run from Columbus to this city. Adams was taken seriously ill when his train reached Chillicothe. He was met at East Portsmouth by Dr. Albert Berndt, who removed him to his home in his automobile. He rallied nicely after arriving home and Friday was reported considerable better.

Mrs. John S. Grimm of 1647 Highland avenue, was a heat victim Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Grimm had been ironing in a hot kitchen when overcome. Dr. James W. Fitch was called to attend her.

Mrs. Theodore Brannan, wife of a former policeman, was overcome with heat at her home 811 John street.

Allies Think Execution Of Ship Captain By The Teutons A Brutal Act

Berlin, July 28.—(By wireless to Sayville)—Captain

Charles Fryatt, of the Great Eastern Railway steamship Brussels which vessel was captured by German destroyers last month and taken into Zebrugge, has been executed by shooting after trial before a German naval court martial. The death sentence was passed upon Captain Fryatt because of his alleged action in attempting previously to ram a German submarine. Testimony was presented at the court martial to show that while Captain Fryatt did not belong to the armed forces he had attempted on March 28, 1915, while near the Mues light ship to ram the German submarine U-33.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—Germany's execution of Captain Charles Fryatt, master of the British steamship Brussels for an alleged attempt to ram a submarine, is regarded in allied circles here as a brutal violation of international law likely to result in retaliatory measures by the British.

The United States government is interested in the incident and what may follow it particularly because of the bearing it may have upon the difficult problems involved in submarine warfare which in the past have brought the country to the brink of war, because it is charged with the care of interests of prisoners on both sides.

Seeks To Recover On Fire Insurance Policy

Earl Baer filed suit against the Aetna Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., Friday, in common pleas court, asking $536 with accrued interest from November 8, 1914, alleged due on a policy. Baer says that he was issued a policy by a representative of the company several years ago, insuring a house and barn on his farm, Harrison township, against fire, for $670. On November 8, 1914, he claims the building was destroyed by fire and he sustained a loss of $536. He asks judgment in that amount.

The Pepper Vine.
The most common and widely used of all spices is pepper. It is a native of the East Indies, but is now cultivated in various parts of the tropical belt of this hemisphere. The plant is a climber and has a smooth stem sometimes twelve feet long. The fruit is about the size of a pea and when ripe is of a bright red color. In cultivation the plant is supported by poles. In some localities small trees are used instead of poles, for the best pepper is grown in a certain degree of shade.

Begin Work On Eighth Open Hearth Furnace At Steel Mill

Work on the eighth open hearth furnace in the plant of the Whitaker-Glessner company in New Boston was begun Friday morning. When completed it will have a 60 ton capacity and the combined tonnage of the eight open hearth furnaces will be per month, according to an announcement made by the company Friday. A 60 foot addition is also to be added to the open hearth department.

Plans of expansion will also be carried into the blooming mill department as an 80 foot addition will be made to it and a series of four hole soaking pits will be installed.

It was rumored today that the firm would erect another blast furnace on the Idlewild addition, but this report originated, the officials say, from the fact that the ground plans of the first blast furnace are such that the second furnace may be built without any trouble.

TIED LOOKING WOMEN

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervousness, neurasthenia perhaps, with its characteristic symptoms of worry, headaches and sleeplessness. Overwork, grief, undue excitement, the late hours and nervous strain of a strenuous social season, lack of outdoor exercise, any or all of these may be responsible for the trouble but the most common cause at this season of the year is the grip.

Whatever the cause, if you feel the need of more strength for the great non-alcoholic tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50. Write for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," and a diet book. Address: Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

THE NEAR SIDE STOP

The question of stopping a street car on the near side of the street instead of on the far side as at present, which is now under consideration by council, is one in which the public is interested from two considerations, safety and service. It can be truthfully said that generally people are not clamoring for a change, in fact the subject was not much discussed until the ordinance was introduced. The public has become accustomed to the far side stop from the fact that cars in Portsmouth have always stopped this way at street intersections. Naturally a change would tend to create confusion for some months and possibly lead to a temporary increase in the number of accidents. With all this in mind, council should give serious consideration to the question of whether or not it is certain that the near side stop would tend to increase the safety of the public and permit of the maintenance of schedules. It is a disputed question. Some cities have the far side stop, some have the near side, and each has arguments in favor of its stand. If we were a councilman, however, we would give weight to the statement issued by the men operating the street cars, the motor-men and conductors. Of all men, they should be most anxious to have the stop that would insure greatest safety to the public. No one hates more to have an accident than a street car man, and by actual experience he knows, or ought to know, what is best and safest. Therefore the protest of the Street Car Men's Union against the ordinance now before council, should be given most earnest consideration.

Council should feel certain that it will mean safer service and better service before it commits itself in favor of the ordinance, and it should avail itself of all information obtainable. If it then feels that the near side stop is demanded by the public and assures greater safety and better service, it should pass the ordinance. Otherwise, the ordinance should be dropped.

Mayor Kaps is to be commended for his declaration that no permits will be granted hereafter for the use of public parks by street fairs or similar amusements. Parks are for one purpose and one only and their integrity should be preserved.

Some day when we have a little spare time on our hands, we are going to take the Hon. Aronhold Schapiro off into a dark, secluded corner and inquire softly of him as to how, when and whereof of the change in his mind as to the superior qualifications of the Hon. Mr. Herriek over those of the Hon. Mr. Daugherty for the Republican nomination for United States senator. We have a vague recollection of once having seen a signed list of pledges for Mr. Daugherty and lo, behold! the name of Aronhold Schapiro led all the rest!! Of course if Aronhold feels like it he can tip off the reasons to us in another one of those public statements.

So council is going to pass the street fair ordinance on August 2nd. Well and good, provided that puts some surcease upon the visits of the pesky things.

Seeing how far and fast the Turks have run the past month, we puzzle how they ever got breath and stopped long enough to report the sweeping victories they were winning daily over the Russians. Even if they did think they were engaged in a foot race and not a fight.

May be we don't know when we are fortunate. Up at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, green corn is selling for sixty cents per dozen.

They say that fear of the people is keeping the European monarchs from making peace and it is altogether too bad the same fear did not keep them from making war.

Not claiming to know anything about such matters, but just guessing like others, we hold the real fighting is no more than started.

A contemporary surmises the food situation is becoming real serious in Germany because a steak costs almost as much in Berlin as it does in New York.

It would hardly do to say the Deutschland has knocked the block off the blockade.

Well, the Cincinnati Reds have won one game out of two, under Matty, their new manager, which may be said to be going some for them.

When everything else subsides our old friend Cip Castro turns up to plague us.

Ashland had a street fair last week and the Daily Independent comes to the front with this comment:

"During the week of July 17-22, there were forty-six arrests made by the Ashland police."

"Why is a street fair?"

And there is no mistake that some people are easily pleased, especially with themselves.

Bill Sulzer is about the busiest man in America, running around after any old sort of a presidential nomination.

COURTING DAYS

(From Gallipolis Tribune)

Thadd Ellis, with his courting comparisons of yesteryear and today in the Pomeroy Tribune-Telegraph, makes us homesick and fills us with regret because of our years. The Racine writer of humor, pathos and devilry says:

"Then and now. Twenty years works miracles! Then it was a buggy and nag—a shady nook, for dinner—cold chicken and ice tea—and Mary! Coming home in the early evening—and then to church to sit and hold hands 'neath the folds of her dress. Then home on the porch to tell the old, old story that is forever new! And now! Whizzing away in a car, long stretches of white road—a lap lunch, sandwich and a cold bottle—and movie! Coming home at midnight—a hasty kiss and goodnight! Then a peep of ankle—now an eyeful of calf. Then the hesitating love hollow of the neck was the limit—now a foot of breast-bone. Then a white organdy and a pair of low shoes were enough—now a new bunch of rags for every new moon. What of it? Nothing of it. The girl-heart is the same. Only the styles of clothes change—the Eve in 'em never changes!"

What puzzles us is where Thadd gets his intimate knowledge of present day cuddlings. A man as fat, shaggy and old as he must have strange powers of observation to know so much.

"Here's the summer more than half gone, according to the calendar, but we have a notion September will linger in summer's lap the most of the month, thereby winning Harry Taylor's enthusiastic approval," says the Gallipolis Tribune. Yes, that's exactly true. But we suppose our content will be jurred occasionally by somebody lugubriously croaking "only 'steem more days till frost."

Our bull dog has conceived such a violent affection for our very youngest niece that he feels called upon to fight every other dog on the block if they come sniffing around her as she plays on the sidewalk. As a result life on Second street has developed into one exciting dog fight after another.

We used to think David Lloyd-George was a great man and a wise man, but we are sprouting doubts. He is shouting we've got 'em licked, but the big and wise man doesn't do his "hollering" until he is out of the woods, or his opponent cries "Nuff." We don't see any one emerging from the trenches and we haven't heard any German exclamation that has that sort of a sound.

Now, honest Injun, do you really know the primary comes on August 8th; further than that are you convinced to action that it is your duty as a good citizen to vote in that primary?

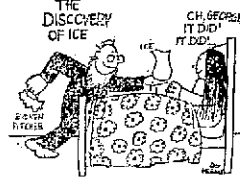

New York financiers are figuring how to keep gold in the country. We have an idea one way would be to let some of it out into the pockets of the people.

Physicians are figuring John D. Rockefeller may live to be a hundred years old. How long they are figuring out a hunk of his billion dollars is not stated.

True it is that harsh words pay no dividends.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

George Ice, that indefatigable inventor and dauntless adventurer, discovered ice in February of his seventy-ninth year, and it has borne his name ever since, although many people merely think that ice is ice. He was camping on a little lake in Canada, accompanied by his wife, when he saw the ice. It was his wife and only she who alone, who shared the hardships of that winter with George Ice, and who, also, shared his joy the morning he found ice in the water pitcher.

He had often said to her: "Martha, I have the theory that if the weather gets cold enough and if we get the water pitcher on the back stool, the water will become solid, and manageable, as it were."

"And we will call it 'ice,'" she said, encouragingly, though George Ice paid little attention to that remark, for it was not fame that he sought in the world.

He knew the inconvenience of water in a house, uncollected state. It required bust, etc. "Water is so unhandy," he said to his wife. "I see no reason that water should not be solidified so that it can be picked up without the aid of a bucket." Night after night he put the water pitcher on the back stool.

One night it froze. His wife heard him shouting with joy. It had been a hard winter. They had been hemmed in by snow and ice. It was terrible. But George would come north, to test his theory. When she heard him about she wondered if, at last, their sufferings were to be rewarded. Soon he came into the bedroom, carrying a broken pitcher in one hand and a perfect replica of the pitcher, intact, in the other. "Now the nations can skate," cried George, as he handed his wife the world's first hunk of ice.

"It strikes me it is quite similar to the stuff we have been walking on in the lake the past two months," said his wife.

"Oh, no, quite different, quite different," said George, wrapping up a corner he had chipped off the hunk, preparatory to sending it to the patent office at Washington.

Numbering Jobs

Ned was nine, Molly was seven and Jane was five, and they all three lived together in a beautiful little house at the end of the street and had just as good times as any little boy of nine or girl of seven or five could possibly want to have. And they didn't quarrel often, and never very seriously.

But this summer it seemed as though nobody ever had the work they wanted to do. For of course they helped Mother and did their part about tidying up the yard and garden. If Mother told Ned to sweep the walk and Molly to empty the wastebaskets and Jane to water the nasturtiums, Ned was sure to wait out indoor job, Molly longed to work outside and Jane wanted to sort over the papers she might want to save for cutting before the waste baskets were emptied.

Mother was quite discouraged about ever getting anybody the job they most wanted to do. And then, one morning when the weather was the very hottest and it was no easy matter to work, even if you liked your job, she happened to have a bright idea.

"I'll tell you what we can do, children," she said, just as soon as Father had left for his work, "I'll number all the jobs that have to be done today. I'll write a little ticket for each number and I'll make a list of the jobs and hang it here on the door. Then we can all draw a number and see what we will do first!"

"You mean you will play, too?" asked the children, for you see, games were a lot more fun if Mother played, too.

"To be sure I will," laughed Mother. "You call them all off now, and I'll write out the list and make the number tickets."

So they all four set to work. Mother wrote down "clear off table, brush up dining-room, make beds, sweep out kitchen, straighten porch, dust living room, water flowers, empty waste baskets."

"There!" she said gaily. "That's enough to start with, and now I'll write the number tickets!" So she wrote, "one, two, three, four, five,

"You mean you will play, too?" asked the children, for you see, games were a lot more fun if Mother played, too.

Such fun as it was to hunt up the job from the number and to see what there was to do first. Mother had to water the flowers—a job she had never had time to do in the morning. Ned brushed up the dining-room, while Molly cleared off the table and Jane straightened the porch and then everybody started on their second job.

They found numbering jobs such a jolly way to get work done that they did it every morning all the rest of the vacation. Try it at your house some day and see if it doesn't turn out fun for all!

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.

O-O-MEINTYRE.

New York, July 28.—This little letter appeared among the letters to the editor of a great New York newspaper:

"We are two poor widows, willing to work, but can't get anything to do, as we are advanced in years. We suggest that we get a hand organ, and make a living that way. Will you kindly tell us how to go about it and where to apply for same?"

A reporter scenting a sob story started in pursuit of the two widows. He found them. They were living in one room over a Bowery store. One was 76 and the other 79 years of age.

Fifteen years ago they lived in the fashionable section of lower Fifth avenue. They had their own carriages, their own servants and were living a quiet and peaceful life of plenty.

And then the war came along. Stocks that represented their modest fortunes were swept away. They were penniless, but they were proud and so they moved over to the East Side where no one knew them and they tried to get something to do—but they were too old for any kind of labor.

Before the reporter left, he was asked not to mention their names. The reporter told his city editor the story and he also agreed mercifully not to write a story about them. A subscription, unbeknown to the old ladies, was taken up among their old friends. They will be sent to a home for old people where they will be taken care of comfortably for the rest of their lives.

If you are interested in the latest things in songs, here are two that they are whistling on Broadway: "Ireland Must Be Heaven For My Mother Came From There" and "Moonshine Sally." The latter is being sung by George MacFarlane, who never lived in Kentucky in his life. Heigh ho!

The dance craze seems to have died down and then flared up again. I watched some new dances in Churchill's, Rector's and the Montmartre the other evening. There is a new twist to a one-step which seems to be quite popular. It is a simple little thing and consists in running to one side for several steps and then pivoting into a deep dip. I thought I could do it. A friend introduced me to a demure young thing who was a professional. After two turns around the floor, she asked me if I liked the floor.

"It is fine, very smooth indeed," I replied.

"Well," said she, "why don't you stay on it?" I have given up dancing for the season. It is not worth the embarrassment it costs.

Some people simply cannot remain neutral. There, for instance, is the seion of an English family who caught a large German carp near Princeton, N. J. After his catch he said hatefully: "The German carp is a logy, loathsome amphibian. No fish can live in the same water with them. They are the fresh water hog. After eating everything in a pond they'll climb out, wiggle over the fields and milk the cows."

That is carrying the Daily Hate too far, indeed!

When the body of a suicide came hurtling through the air from the tenth floor of the Biltmore the other day, an automobile containing six people was grazed. The driver stopped his car with the emergency brake and looked back. What he saw so unnerved him that he was unable to drive his passengers home.

This same driver, a Frenchman, is home from the war zone on a furlough and confessed that he had slept with maimed bodies all about him, but he expected it over there—and this in the heart of a peaceful city was quite different. This is the second suicide from the Biltmore recently. A former manager of the hotel leaped from the roof to the court yard about two years ago.

Speaking of Buns

A man who had purchased some currant buns at a bakery was distressed, on starting to eat one, to find that it contained a fly. Returning to the bakery, he made an indignant complaint, demanding another bun in place of the inhabited one.

"I'm sorry, sir," said the saleswoman, "I can't give you another bun, but if you will bring back the fly I will exchange it for a currant."

Leave It To Johnny

"Who can make a sentence and use the word 'income' correctly?" asked the teacher of the second grade.

"You may tell us, Johnny," indicating a little boy whose hand was waving violently.

"The kitchen door was left open and in came a rat," was the triumphant response.

Not Yet Raised.

"You know I told you a few days after I got my new job that the boss said he'd raise my wages in a month or so."

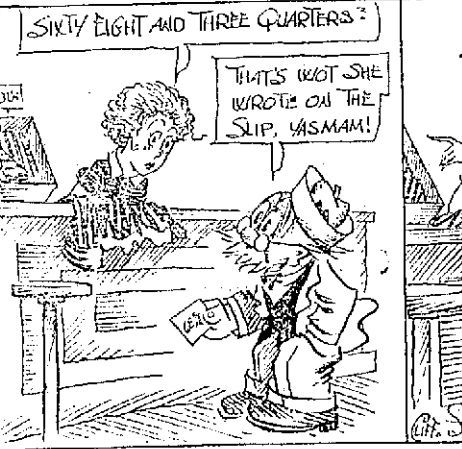

"Yes, and didn't he?"

"No, I misunderstood him. He meant he'd try and raise my first week's wages by that time. I haven't got it yet!"—Stray Stories.

A party of about forty members of the board and committees of the Y. W. C. A. gathered for a general meeting of reports and talks on Association work.

A few men and children joined them at 6:30 dinner in the dining-room, made so attractive by the women of the house committee, who had the meal in charge. Wild flowers were arranged in tall vases, and cunning place-cards were decorated with the same. The place was alive with groups chatting here and there until nine o'clock, when the last of the party returned to town.

Miss Hughes will be remembered by many on her previous visits to this city in Y. W. C. A. work, having spent some time at the organization of the Portsmouth Association.

Great Figure in History Says Success Lies in Nerves

The secret of success, both mentally and physically, lies in the nervous system.

There is no man of great achievements in athletics, in business, or any arduous undertaking, who has not a powerful nervous system.

Napoleon once said: "No man can win the battle of life who has not courage and persistency." Energy is the indispensable quality of great success.

Were it possible to record all the failures in life, not due to lack of brains, but to lack of physical vitality, which is now recognized as an illness in itself, there would be a list so long as to starle the world.

Every great man of history and every highly successful business man of today, is possessed of more than an average amount of energy. A lack of energy is due to weak nerves. Constipation, indigestion, a weak heart, weak kidneys and a torpid liver, every common malady, can be directly traced to a poor nervous system.

Those suffering from sleepless nights, headaches, dizziness, nausea, poor blood, belching of gas and a bloated, heavy feeling after eating of lack of appetite, often attribute their sufferings to disorders of other organs while in reality their troubles are due to a poor nervous system.

Tanlac is a vegetable preparation that was designed to revitalize the nerves. In the Tanlac treatment, former sufferers declare, a person can actually feel the beneficial effects of this wonderful tonic after taking the first few doses. Tanlac builds up torn down tissues, acts as an appetizer, promotes digestion, brings back vigor and energy, and puts the stomach, which after all is the base of most ills, in the habit of doing a full day's work and doing it well.

Tanlac is being especially introduced in Portsmouth at Fisher and Streib's, where the Tanlac Man daily explains its merits and what may be expected from its use.

Tanlac may be obtained in the following nearby towns: New Boston, E. H. Coburn; Sciotoville, Sciotoville Pharmacy; Bloomsville, H. J. Gleim; Scioto, Stockham & Payne; McDermott, Ord Thompson; Leansville, Dr. J. H. Cox; Stockdale, O. E. Emory & Co.; Jasper, J. W. Dewey; Pike-ton, R. B. Willson; Oak Hill, Jenkins Pharmacy; Otway, J. ## TREND OF WAR which can be brought over to the besieged nations in U-boats will be of little account.

Germany and Austria both feel the pinch of hunger. Their armies are sufficiently fed, but their industrial workers complain of lack of nourishment. The present harvest is watched with anxiety and if it fails or is only of a fair size famine will stalk into the situation next spring or earlier.

The German chancellor three times in the Reichstag has offered peace to the entente. On account of this, formidable opposition has arisen to him at home, although he is the kaiser's "other self." His friends are rallying to his defense and on August 1 begins the curious countrywide lecture campaign to prepare the minds of the hitherto docile German people for a "reasonable peace."

Meanwhile, with the sky brightening, the entente allies reaffirm their resolution taken in the dark hours of last winter never to cease their efforts until Germany is crushed. The Teutons not only must be beaten in war, according to the allied formula, but must be repressed economically for many years after the signing of a treaty of peace.

German Soldiers

The correspondent, who had been cautioned that he was likely to find much anti-American feeling among the troops, put questions designed to discover if such sentiment existed. All the men questioned declared they knew nothing of the existence of such a feeling. One soldier summed up their attitude as follows:

"Some American ammunition is being used here but that is a political question and we do not know much about politics. We don't hate anybody. We don't hate the Russians. We are here to fight and we are going to keep right on fighting until the enemy has had enough, whether it lasts one year or ten.

The men were well clothed and well fed.

The men were asked if the ration was sufficient. None were found who did not express complete satisfaction. The soldiers were openly amused when informed it had been reported abroad that their rations had been cut down and that they often forced to go hungry.

Easy Way to Get Rid of Itching

Don't worry any more about that itching skin trouble. Just get a jar of resinal ointment and a cake of resinal soap at any drug store. With the resinal soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinal ointment, and cover with a light bandage. If necessary to protect the bandage, this should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

Choosing Your Shampoo Soap. If you select a soap that contains soothing, healing properties like the resinal balms in resinal soap, you are not likely to have trouble with dandruff, loss of hair or itching scalp. Ideal for the youngsters' heads.

First Wireless Distress Call

The first case on record of "wireless" being employed by a ship in distress occurred on March 3, 1890. On this date the R. F. Matthews ran into the East Goodwin lightship during a heavy fog. The weather conditions would, in the old days, have rendered the work of rescue very difficult, if not impossible. But the R. F. Matthews was equipped with what was then a novelty—Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy. Messages were sent ashore and speedily brought lifeboats to the rescue.—London Globe.

WHEELERSBURG AND BUENA VISTA HIT BY CYCLONE

Lightning Strikes; Barns Leveled; Stock Killed; Damage Is Considerable

A high velocity wind, accompanied by blinding flashes of lightning and gusts of hail, originating somewhere above Wheelersburg, Ohio Valley, and traveling westward, did considerable damage Thursday afternoon. The storm was eccentric in many ways. It seemed to bound up, pass over several miles of territory, then settle to the ground again, flattening fields of corn and damaging houses. At Wheelersburg the storm did considerable damage, leveling trees, blowing down barns and outbuildings and destroying crops. Leaving this village, it seemed to rise, pass over Portsmouth without doing much damage, returning near Buena Vista and subsiding near Sandy Springs.

Lightning struck a barn belonging to John Hansgen, Waits Station. Howard and Stephen, brothers, who were in the structure, narrowly escaped death. A mule and a calf were killed. The barn was destroyed with several thousand dollars loss. The home of Robert Kress, Buena Vista, was struck. A large chimney odd shaped cloud struck the village, it raised the roof from the Kress barn, Mr. Gilliland says, and carried it several hundred feet before it was deposited.

A sharp bolt of lightning struck the Kress home while the party were huddled in the roofless barn, knocking a portion of the chimney off. One of the falling bricks narrowly missed striking George Spencer.

Following in the path of destruction was a sheet of rain and hail. Some of the hail stones were large as hickory nuts, Mr. Gilliland says.

"Just before the storm struck Buena Vista," said Nate Gilliland in describing his experience, "a bolt of lightning struck the Kress house, knocking the chimney down. The brick barely missed George Spencer who was coming out of the alley."

"We saw the cyclone approaching. It looked like a huge water spout. Seems as if it struck right in front of the barn. It peeled the roof off and carried it across the street. Believe me, we were scared."

"The leaves whipped from trees looked like they were pasted against the sides of the houses. The trees were just bent over. Branches flew through the air. Apples were stripped from trees. Apples that are hard to pull off were blown off. Tobacco plants were uprooted and flattened. The corn fields were destroyed. The corn looked like it had been broken off. Some was uprooted."

"It peeled the roof of the old stone saw mill off and blew it across a guy wire and it mashed in one side of the building. It was a genuine cyclone alright."

Damage Is Considerable

Mrs. J. H. Ryan, resident of Buena Vista, when called Friday morning, stated that the cyclone which struck that village Thursday afternoon did several thousand dollars worth of damage. "It would be hard to estimate the damage," Mrs. Ryan said.

As far as can be learned, the storm started near the George W. Hickman farm, about a half mile east of the village. As it traveled westward, it gathered velocity, and seemed to rise and bounce along the rolling ground like a rubber ball, those who saw it say.

Fields of growing corn were crushed to the earth. "The fields in the path of the storm," Mrs. Ryan says, "looks like someone run a roller over the corn. What was not flattened out by the storm was badly damaged by the heavy hail that followed. The hail stones cut many of the plants in to ribbons."

A large number of windows in Buena Vista were broken. Most every house had one or more broken windows, after the storm subsided, Mrs. Ryan says. The German Methodist church suffered slight damage. All of the windows were broken and portions of the roof were destroyed.

As the storm traveled westward it expanded, crossing the river just east of Buena Vista and destroyed considerable corn. "It looks as if someone ironed the corn flat," declared Mrs. Ryan.

Motorboat Party Caught On River

Three young men, Harry Easter, Denver Young and Frank Bishop were crossing the Ohio river in a motorboat when the high winds struck them. Their engine stopped, but the craft was rapidly driven by the wind to the Kentucky shore. The boat was moored to a willow and the party raced to a barn, near there and took refuge.

Shortly after they entered a sharp gust of wind carried the roof away.

Many telephones were placed out of commission. But one subscriber over the Bell telephone could be reached Friday morning, repairing the damage done Thursday.

Wagon Driven Away By Wind

A heavy wagon was picked up on a Kentucky farm, opposite Buena Vista and carried it several hundred feet, then hurled it into a bank of clay, near the Ohio river. The wagon tongue, Mrs. Ryan reports, was driven into the ground four feet by the impact.

The storm spent its fury in the vicinity of the village, Mrs. Ryan says, for over near Sandy Springs, the damage was very light and the rain heavier.

Wagon Load of Hay Upset On Driver

A man known as "Jumbo" Fumier, near Buena Vista, was on his way to Sand Springs with a wagon load of hay. The storm overtook him on the road. It raised the top-heavy vehicle, then toppled it over, before the frightened driver could move. It caught him beneath the load of hay and buried him.

When the wagon overturned, the front wheels and tongue snapped, releasing the horses. Fumier succeeded in freeing himself without much difficulty. He escaped uninjured.

Lightning Hits Hansgen Barn

Howard Hansgen, 12, and his brother, Stephen, married, 25, sons of John Hansgen of Waits Station, had narrow escapes from being killed. One mule was struck dead, a mule and a calf burned to death, considerable grain and large barn belonging to John Hansgen were destroyed when lightning struck the Hansgen barn about four o'clock Thursday afternoon during the severe electric and rain storm.

The barn and contents caught fire in several places when the lightning struck and it was with difficulty that Henry Hensgen, who was rendered unconscious by the shock, was dragged to a place of safety and two horses rescued. The total loss represents several thousand dollars.

The two Hansgen boys had just gotten inside the large barn as the storm broke. They had brought the two horses in from the field and had put them away in their stalls. Henry Hansgen must have been standing at the foot of the large wheat stack in the barn for it was here that his unconscious form was found by his brother. The wheat stack was burning briskly when Stephen Hansgen got hold of his brother and carried him into the open a safe distance from the burning structure. John Hansgen, the father, and Fred Turner, hired man, who were loading hay on a wagon got under the wagon as the rain started, but ran to the barn when it burst into flames. They succeeded in leading out the two horses but before they could return to the barn the roof had begun to fall in.

Stephen Hansgen said the interior of the barn caught fire in many places as the lightning struck. One mule was killed instantly and the other was burned to death. Twenty acres of wheat, a large quantity of hay, calf, buggy, wagon, several sets of driving and working harness and a few small farm implements were completely destroyed.

A set of working harness on one of the horses was all the harness saved. Young Hansgen was unconscious nearly an hour after being saved from burning to death by his brother. The barn was but a short distance from the house, and the fact that the wind was blowing in the opposite direction from the house is all that saved it from catching fire. The Hansgen farm is three-quarters of a mile from the B. & O. S-W. Waits station railroad station.

Lucasville Is Missed

Citizens living at Lucasville report that the heavy wind storm missed that vicinity. There was a light wind Thursday afternoon, but no rain.

Worst Storm In "Dogwood" History

Wesley Shela, farmer of Dogwood Ridge, said that it was the worst storm ever heard of in that part of the county. A barn door was torn from the Shela barn, a second roof on a chicken coop was torn off, and large limbs were torn from trees on different parts of the farm. All of Mr. Shela's blackberries were destroyed, and all his corn consisting of two and one-half acres was laid low.

Garage Is Destroyed

The wind also showed its force on the John Messerer farm on Dogwood Ridge. The Messerer farm joins the Shela farm. A new frame garage on the Messerer farm was blown to bits by the strong wind. Some of the large pieces of wood were carried 250 feet. The top of the new Ford touring car in the garage was badly damaged. The emergency brakes were set on the car, but the wind moved the car four feet. Several chickens were killed by the pieces of wood from the garage. A large barn 100 feet by 50 feet was moved a few inches, but not off its foundation. Eight acres of field corn belonging to Messerer were destroyed.

Large trees in the wooded parts of the two farms were blown down.

Duis Barn Is Damaged

The storm did considerable damage to one of the barns on John Duis' farm near Wheelersburg. One end of it was blown out and the roof was damaged considerably. Five apple trees were also blown down. Mr. Duis stated this morning that it was one of the most destructive storms that has ever visited that section.

Barn Is Blown Down

A barn on the George Reif farm near Wheelersburg was in the path of the storm and it was blown down. Its dimensions were 75 by 40. The barn is now owned by Harry W. Miller and George E. Krieger, of this city.

Wheelersburg In Storm's Path

Wheelersburg was directly in the path of the storm, which at one time seemed to center its destructive fury in that village. When the storm subsided telephone wires were down. Main street in the village was literally strewn with limbs of trees, one big tree in front of the J. C. McCoy home had been leveled and damage was in evidence on all sides as a result of the storm. The wind whipped and slashed its way through that section and much corn was blown down and damage was entailed to growing crops.

Teamster Knocked Down By Lightning

A bolt of lightning struck the John L. Miller barn near Wheelersburg during the storm and Charles Stout, a teamster, was knocked down and badly shocked. He is employed by John Duis, of Wheelersburg and had driven his team into the barn for shelter. The barn was only slightly dam-

Women In Peril At Camp Vera

Camp Vera on the Ohio river bank near Wheelersburg was in the direct path of the wind and rain storm Thursday afternoon. Almost every tree near the camp was torn down or badly damaged by having branches torn down. Mrs. W. E. Funderburg and Mrs. John Ross, who happened to be the only ones in the main house at the camp had narrow escapes from being killed when one of the large trees fell on the house crushing it like an egg shell. The two women climbed out of a window after the tree had wrought its damage.

The kitchen and other small buildings were badly damaged and the entire camp will have to be rebuilt. One of the skiffs was torn from its moorings and Friday no trace of it could be found.

The two ladies took refuge at the J. L. Miller farm house. Alfred Ray, John Joseph and Mr. Funderburg went to the camp and brought the people to Portsmouth. Luckily the several children at the camp had been sent to Sciotoville a short time before the storm broke.

Wertz Camp Is Damaged

The Charles Wertz camp above Wheelersburg was also in the path of the storm. A garage was unroofed, one or two small buildings damaged and trees blown down. A wagon bridge between the Wertz camp and Emmett camp was washed out. Window lights were broken and small buildings damaged at the Emmett camp. At the Pierson camp a garage was overturned, windows were broken and trees blown down.

Dr. Marshall's Farm Hard Hit

Dr. George Marshall's farm at Wheelersburg, was also swept by the storm. A corn crib was blown over and a wagon load of hay was blown from the wagon, a hired hand Henry Bins being on the hay at the time. He was uninjured. Roads on the farm were blocked with trees blown down. Considerable corn was leveled, blown down, and small stacks of hay in the fields overturned. Tom Lowe, colored, employed on the Marshall farm, refused to get on a second wagon load of hay after the first wagon load had been blown off.

Fences on a number of the farms were blown down. Stacked oats on the H. H. Barney farm were blown over. The Hayport road near Wheelersburg was blocked with trees.

Ironton Escapes But Is Isolated

Ironton, O., July 28.—A terrific storm that swept through the middle west last evening, approached Lawrence county's western border and then veered off, cutting Ironton and this immediate section of the tri-state region off its path. However, it wrought havoc with the telephone and telegraph lines, east and west, north and south of Ironton, and The Irontonian was completely cut off from the outside world and was unable to secure even a small portion of its usually liberal daily report of telegraphic events.

Druggist Coburn Sells Business And Property

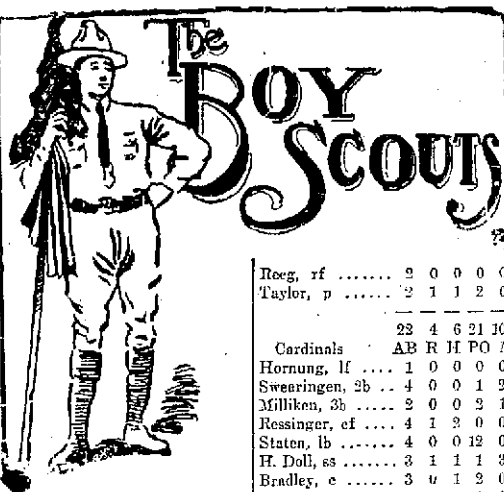

Ernest Coburn, New Boston druggist, announced Friday that a deal was practically closed whereby the drug store and the building it occupies has been taken over by James Kelso, a druggist, who has a big pharmacy in Columbus. Mr. Kelso will take charge of the store Monday. Mr. Coburn and clerks are busy in closing.

The deal involved quite a large sum, the building being one of the best in the village, having been built over a year ago. There are several fine living rooms in the rear and the second floor is given over to flats, everything being taken over by Mr. Kelso.

Mr. Coburn has not decided on what kind of work he will take up but for the present will take a much needed rest. Announcement of the deal will be received as a big surprise by Mr. Coburn's many friends. Mr. Coburn has been in business four years in New Boston and enjoys a splendid trade, being the only drug store in the hustling village. Earl Fischback will retain his position as clerk.

LEARN TO THINK.

Too many persons go through this life without learning to think seriously. On whatever subject the mind feels a lively interest, attention, though always an effort, becomes a delightful effort. In order to learn we must attend; in order to profit by what we have learned we must think—that is, reflect.—Cortledge.

Hold Meetings To Give Boost To The Good Roads Movement

For the purpose of providing the eastern section of the county with better roads a splendid meeting of prominent farmers, taxpayers and citizens of that vicinity was held at South Webster Thursday night. Another rousing big meeting to further the movement will be held Tuesday, August 1, at Pinkerman at 7:30 o'clock and a meeting will be held Thursday, August 3 at Firebrick. Music will be furnished by the South Webster brass band.

Frank B. Lair, candidate for commissioner at the G. O. P. primary, one of the prominent workers in the good roads campaign launched so enthusiastically in the eastern part of the county, was a visitor to the city Friday and he stated that last night's meeting at South Webster was attended by 24 persons and that the movement for more passable roads would be taken up thoroughly and systematically.

Among the leaders in the campaign are Mr. Lair, L. C. Cadot, William Downing, Harry M. Strong, Dr. A. F. Stewart, Edward Bauer, all well known in vicinity of South Webster.

The honorary members of the organization include prominent local citizens, who are advocating better roads throughout Scioto county. They are Henry T. Bannan, H. E. Taylor, Dr. P. W. Young, Senator W. D. Tremper, Nate R. Gilliland, E. O. McQueen, Frank L. Sikes, George W. Shepard, John B. Jones, William Hitecheek and John C. Bauer.

War Taxation Invented.

War taxation, like everything else, had to be invented. The king who first thought of it in England was Henry II. Instead of asking his barons to accompany him to French battlefields at their own charge, he compounded with them, accepted "scutage" or shield money, and from the barons he collected "gifts," "aids" or "tallages." Henry could then hire his own men, and if need be turn them against the king, and barons themselves, as the army was under his own control.—London TR-BLS.

SUDDEN DEATH

Before an insurance company will take a risk on your life the examining physician will test your water and report whether you are a good risk. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or feelings and pains of limbo, rheumatism and gout, or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late! You can readily overcome such conditions and prolong life by taking the advice of a famous physician, which he "Keep the kidneys in good order, avoid too much meat, salt, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water and drive the acid out of the system by taking 'Anurie' in tablet form." You can obtain "Anurie" at almost all drug stores. It was the discovery of Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. If you cannot obtain it at your drug store, send him 10 cents for trial package "Anurie," or $1.00 for full treatment.

FORBEARANCE.

Endeavor to be patient in hearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of what sort soever they be, for that thyself also hast many failings which must be borne with by others.—Thomas a Kempis.

Query.—Dyer—Oh, well, Dyer has his good points! Rye—Is that the reason he sticks everybody?—Judge.

estate and be divided among the nearest heirs, the same as money or real estate.

Dear Miss Wise—Who could collect money on a fire insurance policy, in the name of a person, now deceased, if such property should be destroyed by fire? INQUISITIVE. The insurance would be paid to the executor or administrator of the deceased. Dear Dolly—Please tell me which is the busiest corner, or square, in the world. WILLIAM. We all know there is no busier place in the world than New York City. While sight-seeing in that great city a few weeks ago, I was things you ask about.

Dear Miss Wise—Can men's palm beach suits be washed, or must they be dry-cleaned? MRS. D. M. They can be laundered, but if you are going to try to do it at home, it may not be very successful unless you are expert in pressing men's clothes. The laundries, I believe, make special prices for such suits.

Dear Miss Wise—Is it true that raw tomatoes contain vegetable calomel, and that they may be used, when eaten in quantities, instead of blue mass when one is bilious? My grandmother says if one eats plenty of raw tomatoes, one will need no bilious medicine all summer long. BILIOUS GIRL.

Strictly speaking, there is no such thing as vegetable calomel. It is a mineral drug, a preparation of mercury. Tomatoes will not act as a substitute for blue mass, which is a mild form of mercury. Tomatoes are wholesome, and, to a certain extent, remedial when in their prime, and may well be eaten freely to correct in some degree biliary secretions consequent upon summer heat. But do not take them as medicine. A judicious dietary must not be confounded with drugs.

Bess—You can't blame him for getting peevish. Why didn't you ask him to go with you to the party? There is nothing you can do now but be real pleasant every time you meet him. He will get over his little spell by-and-by.

Dear Dolly—A friend of mine has a birthday in the course of a month. Would it be all right for me to send him a card? If so, what would be a proper verse? What do you think of a girl who calls another friend up and asks him to come and see her? I am troubled with white heads on my nose. What will stop them? I thank you ever so much.

Certainly. A card would be an appropriate gift. Select a card with a proper verse on it, or just say, "Birthday Greetings." I think she is very bold. A good cold cream applied at night, and massaged in the morning will remove the "white heads."

HO-MAYDE BREAD IMPROVER As a Helping Hand on Bake Days

HO-MAYDE is a boon to bread makers. There are positively no failures where it is used. No matter how unfavorable the conditions are for bread making, good results attend its use.

It makes enough extra bread to more than pay for itself.

HO-MAYDE improves imparts a sweet, nut-like taste to the bread, makes a lighter, close-grained texture, and assures excellent keeping qualities.

HO-MAYDE is guaranteed to be absolutely pure, wholesome and dependable.

will be affected by it, but grease spots and other soiled places will disappear. If a spot of grease appears on the tablecloth, do not put it in the soiled clothes bag or cover it with a fresh napkin or doily; merely place folded paper between the cloth and the polished table-top and rub the spot lightly with benzine, and the spot will be not hidden, but wiped out. If toilet creams are spilled on dressing table covers, benzine removes them quickly and leaves no sign. Spots on dining-room rugs, bath-room rugs, rugs in the children's rooms and in the kitchen disappear with only a few moments' work. Even soiled places on children's blouses and waists may be obliterated by benzine. The fancy open-work papers on pantry shelves will bear cleaning several times with benzine before wearing out. Headrests, couch cushions and flannel pillows should be cleaned often with a liberal application of benzine. Just remember that it is as practical and successful for linen or cotton as for silk, and uses for it will be found daily. Apply with a piece of soft old cloth.

HER HOME NO LONGER CHILDLESS

Operation not necessary after Taking the Great Medicine for Women.

Miller's Falls, Mass.—"Doctors said I had displacement very badly and I would have to have an operation. I had a soreness in both sides and a pulling sensation in my right side. I could not do much work. The pain was so bad, I was also troubled with irregularity and other weaknesses. My blood was poor. We had been married four years and had no children."

After using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier I became well and strong and was saved from the operation. We are now the parents of a big baby girl and I praise your remedies to others and give you permission to publish my letter." Mrs. Josephine H. Miller, Jr., Bridge Street, Miller's Falls, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is famous for restoring women to normal health and strength. When this is done wives no longer despair of having children.

A woman should be reluctant to submit to a surgical operation until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. If you have a case that needs special advice, write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

"My daughter was poisoned by salt and turned into eczema and from her hands to her elbows was one mass of red, burning, itching eruptions. It began with a rash which was of such a burning itching nature that at times she was nearly wild. For many weeks she could not put her hands in water and she could not sleep. "She suffered intensely for several weeks and I tried wringing towels out of hot water and putting a rubber sheet across her, but she wasn't helped. The doctor said to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. ## HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of any one suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way without starvation diet or life-some exercise, spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from The Fisher & Streich Pharmacy or any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is designed to consume the excessive fatty tissue by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, footsteps become lighter, your work seem easier and lighter and more buoyant feeling take possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial.

Unidentified Man Killed At Hanging Rock; Was Trespasser

An unidentified man evidently fell from an N. & W. west-bound freight train last night at Hanging Rock and was killed, the wheels completely cutting his body in twain, this morning's Ironton Irononian says.

The entire N. & W. railway system was tied up for over an hour, until Mayor Joseph Kinkaid, of Hanging Rock, examined the body, after it was learned that Coroner O. U. O'Neill was out of the city on business. Undertaker Gholson and Sons then took the remains in charge and will hold them at their mortuary parlors pending identification.

The man was white, and was evidently hobnobbing. He is thought to have gone to sleep on the train and then to have fallen between the cars to his death.

The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock, a few yards below the N. & W. tower house at Hanging Rock.

On The Water Wagon for Balance of My Days

"I Thank God That I Went To The Neal Institute Before It Was Too Late."

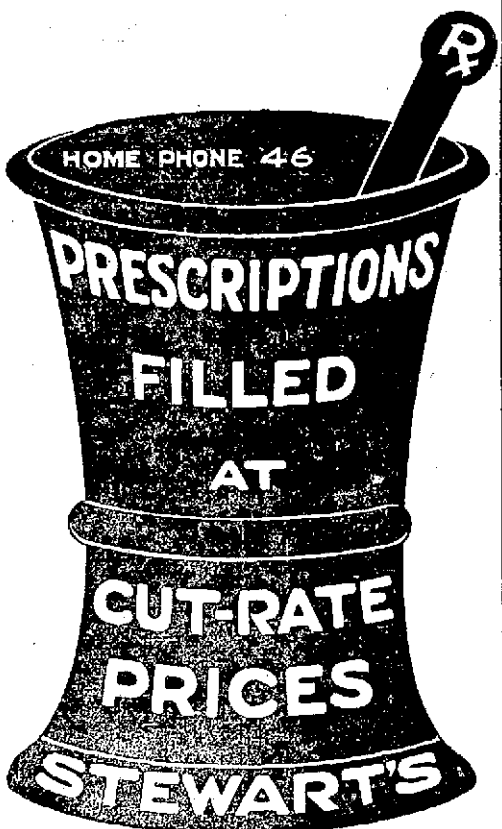

"I am still on the water wagon and expect to remain there the balance of my days. I thank God that I went to the Neal Institute before it was too late."

Such was the substance of a letter sent by an Akron man, who was saved from the health-destroying bondage of drink at the Neal Institute. Just a few words, but they were direct to the point and carried as much evidence of sincere appreciation as could be crowded into a couple of pages.

This man's letter might almost be called a written prayer. Many others are giving thanks because thru the administration of the Neal Treatment they were saved from the sure returns on the investment made by every man who drinks—"dividends" in the shape of wrecked health, lost business, vanished happiness and misery of mind and body. Old John Barleycorn always collects and Death and Disease are the twins who trail behind. No matter how long that craving appetite has called you to take "just another drink" to quiet your nerves, you can break with the habit by taking the Neal Treatment. In three days this harmless vegetable remedy, taken wholly by mouth, changes desire for drink into intense dislike of everything alcoholic.

There is no publicity. Write for free booklet. The Neal Institute, 601 Maple Ave., Aonvdale, Cincinnati. Phone Avon 4020. Other Neal Institutes located at Columbus, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. adv

The Sixth Sense.

Naturalists have long held that there is no magic about it if we postulate the existence of a sixth sense—a relational sense, a topographical sense, a sense of distance and direction, such as resides on a very small scale in a snake's tongue and the antennae of ants. Such a sense must reside, too, in migrating birds, in homing pigeons.—London Standard.

100 MILES WITHIN A WEEK;
TURKS FLEE BEFORE DRIVE

Petrograd, July 28.—(Via London)—Russian troops covered a hundred miles in their advance on Erzingan within a week. The capture of that city means the virtual completion of the Russian occupation of Turkish Armenia and gives Russia, the benefit of the extreme fertile valley, and opens an easy means of communication through Trebs on the western and southern Caucasian armies.

It is estimated that the Turks had been 25 and 30 divisions between the Black Sea and Mush—approximately 350,000 men. Three months ago the Turks undertook a comprehensive campaign, intended to recapture Erzerum, and incidentally to draw troops from the Russian European theatre. General Eudenich, the Russian commander, in the Caucasus, succeeded in holding the Turks in the Erzerum district while delivering an effective blow at them in the Mush district. In order to avoid this flanking from the south and a similar fort from the north, the Russians were obliged temporarily to abandon Mamahatun, 50 miles west of Erzerum. The Russians now have captured Trebizond, Bairbut and Gumishkhan and recaptured Mamahatun.

The Galician advance of the Russians has caused the Germans to withdraw troops from the Balkans, and Turks were sent there to replace them. The Russians, quick to see the advantage thus afforded started a vigorous offensive toward Erzingan. Only a rear guard battle preceded the capture of the town, the Turkish main forces having been beaten and forced to retreat toward Siyas.

Colonel Shumsky, military critic of the Bourz Gazette, in an article on the victory of the Russians at Erzingan, says:

"This defeat of the best troops of the Ottoman empire has quite broken the Turkish defense. No further serious offensive can be expected, since only parts of divisions from Constantinople, and Egyptian armies can be spared to patch up these broken units."

Discussing the energetic preparations of the Russians for the continuance of the war, General Chouvaieff, minister of war, in an interview with the Russky Stovo, says:

"It is necessary to dispel the illusion that the war can end in the autumn. The breaking down of the enemy's forces has already begun—a fact as well known by the Germans as by the entente allies—but Germany's technique is so high that in spite of her economic weakening and the lowered morale of her troops, Germany still has the power to resist, and we must look forward to a further struggle before the final victory."

"This explains the recent orders calling men ordinarily exempt to the colors. Russia already has a large reserve, but it is our intention that this reserve shall not diminish. It is fitting also that the foreign races in the Russia who ordinarily would not be obliged to serve, should be recruited, if not in the active army at least in work connected with the conduct of the war, for all elements in Russia will receive the benefits of victory."

Florence Turner in "Far From the Madding Crowd," Mutual Star Production.

Florence Turner in a marvelous characterization of Bathsheba, the impulsive, capricious but fascinating woman upon whom tragedy and suffering is brought by her own actions, in "Far From the Madding Crowd," an artistic five act production of the great novel by the dean of English literature, Thomas Hardy, O. M. will be the extraordinary feature attraction at the Lyric tomorrow at the usual admission of: Adults 10c and children 5c. Come early and be sure of getting in.

Ruth Roland and Andrew Arbuckle in "A Matrimonial Martyr" Columbia Tonight

In Ruth Roland and Andrew Arbuckle, the two players featured in "A Matrimonial Martyr," the five part Gold Rooster Play made by Balboa and treated to the exquisite process of Pathécolor in the Pathe Company's Paris Laboratories, we see that rarity of screen art—actors physically and temperamentally in accord with their parts.

In the double role of Erna Desmond and Mrs. Hugo Stanley, Ruth Roland is happy. The play tells for her happiness only as Erna Desmond; but Ruth's volatile temperament reveals happily in her interpretation of the irascible, waspish, mercurial Mrs. Hugo Stanley; for her chameleon feelings conduce to making each part more real for contrast with the other.

In "A Matrimonial Martyr," Andrew Arbuckle plays Hugo Stanley, an antiquarian hooked up to a wife with an ungovernable temper. Stanley is a roly poly, "God's in His heaven, all's right with the world" sort, and when he rebels at the outrageous "moods" of his vixenish wife, it's because—well, you know. Anyway, he goes away. While he's gone his "better" half engages a companion, a girl light Erna Desmond, Mrs. Stanley's counterpart in everything but personality. Taking advantage of this, and desirous of a separation Mrs. Stanley jumps to Reno, leaving Erna in her place.

Then back comes the beaming Stanley who just simply couldn't stay mad, and falls in love with his docile "wife"—only it isn't his wife at all, and she falls in love with him. There's a bunch of highly dramatic and ludicrous situations subsequent to this until all ends happily on the receipt of a telegram from the real Mrs. Stanley gloating over the fact that she has obtained a divorce in Reno.

They should worry!

"The Silent Man of Timber Gulch" is a two reel Western feature drama produced by the Gold Seal Company. The story written by Robert Leonard, features the author and El Hall. The story is one of an old, half-demented hermit, separated from his wife by his own dissipation. Later his daughter, who is the image of the mother, comes and the sight of her revives her father's reason.

"All Over a Stocking" is one of those screaming Nestor comedies. The concluding number is "A Double Fire Reception" an Imp drama.

At The Temple

"Acquitted" is a five part Triangle drama featuring Wilfred Lucas, Bessie Love and Elmer Clifton.

John Carter, who is a book-keeper in an insurance company, is arrested on a charge of murdering Charles Ryder, a cashier. Afterwards the night watchman confesses himself guilty of the crime. Then Carter finds that the president of the company will not reinstate him.

Ned Fowler, a clever young reporter, who has aided Carter, becomes engaged to the daughter of the house, Helen.

"His Hereafter" is a two part Triangle comedy.

"The Inside of the White Slave Traffic" in five reels is Saturday's attraction.

At The Arcana

"The Madcap" is a five reel Red Feather feature drama based on a story by George Gibbs. It features Flora Parker De Haven in the part of a rich young girl in search of happiness. She falls in love with an artist and travels with him on foot through France, he painting portraits and she singing. This is uniformly artistic throughout and makes a strong appeal to the eye. The love story is complicated by the intrusion of a second woman, who tries to create a scandal and almost succeeds. A strong plot, unusually pleasing in a pictorial way.

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis—

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord—said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth clean and is free from injurious ingredients, including pumice and grit." "I am indeed glad to get a tooth paste that does the work." "Congratulations on your formulating a dentifrice that gives one a new idea of mouth cleanliness, etc." (These quotations are from the dentists' reports. Originals on file at our office.)

With such endorsement from the men who know, why not go to your dealer today and get a tube of SENRECO—also keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN, and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay.

Eight Coal Cars Are Derailed At Sciotoville; Train Rider Is Blamed

Eight cars loaded with coal attached to westbound N. & W. freight No. 1445, in charge of Engineer Ernest Kidd and Conductor David Bush, were derailed and one smashed to pieces one mile east of Sciotoville, at 12:01 Friday morning. Traffic on this division was practically at a standstill until 2:45 this morning because of the wreck. Passenger train No. 4, arriving here from Columbus at 11:50, was held here on account of the smashup. It is believed that the derailment resulted from a trespasser turning an angle cock on one of the cars. The wrecking crew from East Portsmouth cleared up the wreckage. Coal was strewn all along the N. & W. tracks in the vicinity of the wreck.

"Hell's Crucible" Swept By Machine Guns, Snipers, Bombs, Big Shells & Little Shells; Three Shells A Minute Fall On Every Yard

With the British in the Field, July 28.—(Via London) —The British went after Delville wood again yesterday and took it.

The Germans had been quiet because the British made no infantry attack, but all the while the machine guns had been rattling and artillery had kept up a thunderous drumbeat in what before this offensive would have been referred to as a violent artillery duel. So commonplace has the continual bombardment become that one officer, whose post of duty is with the transport just out of the range of the shells, complains that he is awakened when there is a lull at night.

Yesterday morning the British put on Delville wood the heaviest concentration of shell fire in a given area ever directed against field fortifications. Even the gunners were amazed when they computed its volume per minute in preparing for the way for the infantry. Counting the front a thousand yards, there must have been three shells a minute falling on every yard.

The purpose was to leave nothing standing nothing living. Not a single German sniper in a tree, not a single German machine gun but what was to be put out of business by the tornado of blasts. Delville wood has left Trone wood with a tattered reputation. The infantry of both sides there have no doubts. Their only plan is shallow trenches, such as are dug in open field operations. A shell which tears a hole among the roots of a tree, killing a man, makes some protection for his neighbor who survives.

Sniper hand machine guns watch for any head to show itself. Patrols which got out in the night engage in hand to hand encounters, the flash of a bursting shell may reveal one patrol to another and give it the advantage. The British had nearly all the Delville wood after the advance of July 21 but the Germans got an enfilading machine gun and shell fire on them and took possession of the middle of the wood and of the British dead who fought to the last man. But the British kept the southern end of the wood and the adjoining village of Longueval against repeated attacks, raking Germans with machine gun and shell fire.

Take All But Acre
When the infantry advanced yesterday morning they did not expect to recover all the wood, but before the charge had finished they had taken all except about an acre of the northern end. The troops engaged around Longueval and Delville where the fighting exceeds in ferocity for the possession of the valuable German defenses, have been both regulars and new army battalions. The new army men, fresh from the English drill grounds, when put into this "hell's crucible" have shown the same racial stubbornness as the regulars. "No shell fire could be worse than the way the teachers had pictured it to us," said one of the new army men. "We were expecting it all—machine guns, bombs, snipers, big shells and little shells—and so we were not surprised."

not be put permanently on the reserve, but would have another chance in the offensive. They had a week of this uninterrupted orgy, and when they came out to rest their commander informed them they had made good and could go back. The dust caked veterans cheered this announcement.

Yesterday morning the British found there a hundred Germans, mostly with some kind of wound, who had survived the fearful bombardment, which had left them stunned and hugging the bottom of shell holes or the remains of their trenches.

One Death Results From The Street Car Strike In The Bronx

New York, N. Y., July 28.—The National organization of the street railway employees today continued efforts to unionize all the motormen and conductors of New York City. Its leaders predicted that, if the street railway company did not yield to their demands in the Bronx and Westchester county, the strike in those districts would spread through the city.

Officers of the carmen's organization said that arrangement for the fight in New York had been in progress for several months and that a fund of $150,000 was on hand for use in the event of a general tie-up on subway, surface and elevated lines. Edward Maher, Jr., general manager of the Union Railway Company, declared that with adequate police protection the strike would be broken by Saturday. He denied that there was danger of the strike's spreading.

No attempt has been made to fasten on the strikers blame for the fatal accident that occurred in the Bronx late last night. In this accident a strike-breaker acting as motorman was killed, and two policemen and three strike guards employed by the railway company were hurt. Their car jumped the track and struck an iron pillar, and five minutes later three empty cars, in some mysterious manner, rolled down a steep hill and crashed into the wreckage.

Here Are Candidates On Both Tickets For The Fall Election

Both the Democratic and Republican state tickets show competition for most every office, according to the official tickets made public Wednesday by J. F. Johnley, deputy clerk of the Board of Election.

While on the county tickets, there is but little competition. On the Republican ticket, there are two candidates, Judge Thomas C. Beatty and Nate B. Gilliland contending for honors for probate judgeship. Then Gilbert F. Dodds and Harry H. Mittendorf seek the county treasurership, and four are making the race for county commissioners. They are: George H. Hill, Frank B. Lair, Thomas W. Watkins and Charles E. Worley.

Four are competing on the Democratic ticket for county commissioner honors. This is the only opposition offered on the county ticket. Those seeking the office of county commissioner are: John P. Addis, Burle Burke, Daniel Egbert and George F. Jenkins.

The complete state, district and county Republican and Democratic tickets are:

Couldn't Straighten Up.

Mrs. J. M. Sprinkle of Sulphur Springs, Va., says that Cardui cured her permanently of her troubles. "About two years ago I got into awful bad health. I was going down hill in health could only drag around. My friends recommended that I try Cardui. I began using Cardui and in a short time was greatly improved. Before starting I couldn't straighten up to save me. I suffered great pains in the abdomen, sides and back worse than anywhere. After the use of one bottle I had no pain at all. The cure has been permanent. I neither had to have a doctor or take any medicine. If you suffer from any of the ailments common to women, try Cardui The Women's Tonic. Your druggist sells it."

Five good old boys all between the 70-80 milestone in life, all members of the illustrious Grand Army of the Republic, are away on a vacation and sight-seeing trip of more than passing interest. Those in the party are Captain G. S. Neary, ex-county commissioner, and Messrs. Thomas Scott, Samuel Skelton and Iowa Conklin, of this city, and Ex-Sheriff of Gallia county, Joseph

The first four left here Monday morning, in Mr. Conklin's car, that sturdy veteran at the wheel for the long trip, and at Rio Grande they picked up Comrade Martin. Crossing the Ohio at Gallipolis, they proceeded up the beautiful Kanawha river to Lena, Va., the first day. Brandenberg Regiment Driven Out Of Woods; Czar's Forces Gaining Ground On West Front

(BULLETIN)

London, July 28--British troops have captured Delville wood in its entirety, a British official statement announced this afternoon. The German position in the Somme region had been defended by the Brandenburg regiment which was driven out.

(BULLETIN)

Paris, July 28--Russians reconnoitering at Aubervie, in the Champagne, says the French official statement issued this afternoon, penetrated the German trenches and cleared them with hand grenades. The Russians took some prisoners. A German attempt to attack near Lihons, north of Chaulnes, was arrested by French infantry fire. On the right bank of the Meuse, in the Verdun region, German preparations to attack Thiaumont work were stopped by artillery fire. Two German aeroplanes were shot down in the Somme region.

HEAT WAVE CONTINUES; MANY DEATHS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, July 28--Illinois and neighboring states found no relief today from the unusual heat wave and there was a probability that the records of 100 degrees yesterday might even be broken. There was little cheer the announcement that the weather forecast here that "Fair and continued warm", would be the rule in this section of the country today.

Deaths directly due to the heat numbered 17 for the 24 hours ending at six o'clock this morning, according to reports received at the central police station. More than two score prostrations were reported.

Thousands sought relief in Lake Michigan far into the night and life guards were unable to drive the people out of the water until long after 9:30, the hour set by the city for bathers to leave the beaches.

NO RELIEF PROMISED

Friday dawned in Ohio with no promise of relief from the excessive heat. The weather forecast follows: Ohio--Fair; continued warm tonight and Saturday.

One Death Results From The Street Car Strike In The Bronx

New York, N. Y., July 28--The National organization of the street railway employees today continued efforts to unionize all the motormen and conductors of New York City. Its leaders predicted that, if the street railway company did not yield to their demands in the Bronx and Westchester county, the strike in those districts would spread through the city.

Officers of the carmen's organization said that arrangement for the fight in New York had been in progress for several months and that a fund of $750,000 was on hand for use in the event of a general tie-up on subway, surface and elevated lines.

Edward Maher, Jr., general manager of the Union Railway Company, declared that with adequate police protection the strike would be broken by Saturday. He denied that there was danger of the strike's spreading.

No attempt has been made to hasten on the strikers' blame for the fatal accident that occurred in the Bronx late last night. In this accident a strike-breaker acting as motorman was killed, and two policemen and three strike guards employed by the railway company were hurt. Their car jumped the track and struck an iron pillar, and five minutes later three empty cars, in some mysterious manner, rolled down a steep hill and crashed into the wreckage.

WEATHER

Ohio--Fair. Continued warm tonight and Saturday.

Throwing the Dart. Throwing the dart is a picturesque custom which is observed in Cork, Ireland. Every third year the chief magistrate proceeds to the mouth of Cork harbor in full state. Following immemorial custom, he throws a dart into the sea--a dart with a head of gold and a shaft of mahogany--saying, "I cast this javelin into the sea and declare that as far around as it falls extend the right and dominion of the corporation of Cork to and over the harbor as well as the rivers, creeks and bays within the same."

Kaiser Controls More of Europe Than A Year Ago

GERMANY FACES UNFAVORABLE SITUATION IN NUMEROUS RESPECTS

New York, July 28--The end of the second year of the Great War finds the Germans in possession of more of Europe than they held on August 1, 1915, the first anniversary of the start of the great conflict.

This is practically the only respect in which the situation is more favorable to them. Russia, her vast man power at last organized and furnished with implements of destruction in plenty, it battering the Teuton lines on the east and has already won back 4500 square miles. Great Britain boasts five million men in her army and navy. France fights as strongly as ever. Italy is increasing her formidable power.

Austria appears to be losing heart and efficiency, Bulgaria refuses to send reinforcements to the west or Russian fronts. Turkey shows slight offensive power.

The British navy, following the much disputed naval battle of Jutland, still shuts off Germany from use of the seas. One merchant submarine has reached America, but the supplies which can be brought over to the besieged nations in U-boats will be of little account.

Germany and Austria both feel the pinch of hunger. Their armies are sufficiently fed, but their industrial workers complain of lack of nourishment. The present harvest is watched with anxiety and if it fails or is only of a fair size famine will stalk into the situation next spring or earlier.

The German chancellor three times in the Reichstag has offered peace to the entente. On account of this, formidable opposition has arisen to him at home, although he is the Kaiser's "other self." His friends are rallying to his defense and on August 1 begins the curious countrywide lecture campaign to prepare the minds of the hitherto docile German people for a "reasonable peace."

Meanwhile, with the sky brightening, the entente allies reaffirm their resolution taken in the dark hours of last winter never to cease their efforts until Germany is crushed. The Teutons not only must be beaten in war, according to the allied formula, but must be repressed economically for many years after the signing of a treaty of peace.

Who Is The Mother Of This Child? Judge Landis Must Decide

Chicago, July 28--Developments by Miss Ryan for possession of the infant, it is expected, would be hastened by the disposition of the "Baby Irene," were considered probable today in the controversy between Mrs. Dollie Ledgerwood Maters and Miss Margaret Ryan, the Canadian girl, both of whom claim to be the mother of the child. ## THE NEAR SIDE STOP

The question of stopping a street car on the near side of the street instead of on the far side as at present, which is now under consideration by council, is one in which the public is interested from two considerations, safety and service. It can be truthfully said that generally people are not clamoring for a change, in fact the subject was not much discussed until the ordinance was introduced. The public has become accustomed to the far side stop from the fact that cars in Portsmouth have always stopped this way at street intersections. Naturally a change would tend to create confusion for some months and possibly lead to a temporary increase in the number of accidents. With all this in mind, council should give serious consideration to the question of whether or not it is certain that the near side stop would tend to increase the safety of the public and permit of the maintenance of schedules. It is a disputed question. Some cities have the far side stop, some have the near side, and each has arguments in favor of its stand. If we were a councilman, however, we would give weight to the statement issued by the men operating the street cars, the motormen and conductors. Of all men, they should be most anxious to have the stop that would insure greatest safety to the public. No one hates more to have an accident than a street car man and by actual experience he knows, or ought to know, what is best and safest. Therefore the protest of the Street Car Men's Union against the ordinance now before council, should be given most earnest consideration.

Council should feel certain that it will mean safer service and better service before it commits itself in favor of the ordinance, and it should avail itself of all information obtainable. If it then feels that the near side stop is demanded by the public and assures greater safety and better service, it should pass the ordinance. Otherwise, the ordinance should be dropped.

Mayor Kaps is to be commended for his declaration that no permits will be granted hereafter for the use of public parks by street fairs or similar amusements. Parks are for one purpose and one only and their integrity should be preserved.

Some day when we have a little spare time on our hands, we are going to take the Hon. Aronhold Schapiro off into a dark, secluded corner and inquire softly of him as to how, when and whereof the change in his mind as to the superior qualifications of the Hon. Mr. Herriek over those of the Hon. Mr. Daugherty for the Republican nomination for United States senator. We have a vague recollection of once having seen a signed list of pledges for Mr. Daugherty and lo, and behold! the name of Aronhold Schapiro led all the rest!! Of course if Aronhold feels like it he can tip off the reasons to us in another one of those public statements.

So council is going to pass the street fair ordinance on August 2nd. Well and good, provided that puts some succor upon the visits of the pesky things.

Seeing how far and fast the Turks have run the past month, we puzzle how they ever got breath and stopped long enough to report the sweeping victories they were winning daily over the Russians. Even if they did think they were engaged in a foot race and not a fight.

May be we don't know when we are fortunate. Up at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, green corn is selling for sixty cents per dozen.

They say that fear of the people is keeping the European monarchs from making peace and it is altogether too bad the same fear did not keep them from making war.

Not claiming to know anything about such matters, but just guessing like others, we hold the real fighting is no more than started.

A contemporary surmises the food situation is becoming real serious in Germany because a steak costs almost as much in Berlin as it does in New York.

It would hardly do to say the Deutschland has knocked the block off the blockade.

Well, the Cincinnati Reds have won one game out of two, under Matty, their new manager, which may be said to be going some for them.

When everything else subsides our old friend Cip Castro turns up to plague us.

Ashland had a street fair last week and the Daily Independent comes to the front with this comment:

"During the week of July 17-22, there were forty-six arrests made by the Ashland police."

"Why is a street fair?"

And there is no mistake that some people are easily pleased, especially with themselves.

Bill Sulzer is about the busiest man in America, running around after any old sort of a presidential nomination.

COURTING DAYS

(From Gallipolis Tribune)

Thadd Ellis, with his courtship comparisons of yesteryear and today in the Powers Tribune-Telegraph, makes us homesick and fills us with regret because of our years. The Racine writer of humor, pathos and devilry says:

"Then and now. Twenty years works miracles! Then it was a buggy and nag—a shady nook, for dinner—cold chicken and ice tea—and Mary! Coming home in the early evening—and then to church to sit and hold hands 'neath the folds of her dress. Then home on the porch to tell the old, old story that is forever new! And now!—Whizzing away in a car, long stretches of white road—a lap lunch, sandwich and a cold bottle—and movie! Coming home at midnight—a hasty kiss and goodnight! Then a peep of ankle—now an eye of calf. Then the hesitating love hollow of the neck was the limit—now a foot of breast-bone. Then a white organdy and a pair of low shoes were enough—now a new bunch of rags for every new moon. What of it? Nothing of it. The girl's heart is the same. Only the styles of clothes change—the Eve in 'em never changes!"

What puzzles us is where Thadd gets his intimate knowledge of present day courtships. A man as fat, shaggy and old as he must have strange powers of observation to know so much.

"Here's the summer more than half gone, according to the calendar, but we have a notion September will linger in summer's lap the most of the month, thereby winning Harry Taylor's enthusiastic approval," says the Gallipolis Tribune. Yes, that's exactly true. But we suppose our content will be jarred occasionally by somebody lugubriously croaking "only 'steven more days till frost."

Our bull dog has conceived such a violent affection for our very youngest niece that he feels called upon to fight every other dog on the block if they come sniffing around her as she plays on the sidewalk. As a result life on Second street has developed into one exciting dog fight after another.

We used to think David Lloyd-George was a great man and a wise man, but we are sprouting doubts. He is shouting we've got 'em licked, but the big and wise man doesn't do his "hollering" until he is out of the woods, or his opponent cries "Nuff." We don't see any one emerging from the trenches and we haven't heard any German exclamation that has that sort of a sound.

Now, honest Injun, do you really know the primary comes on August 8th; further than that are you convinced to action that it is your duty as a good citizen to vote in that primary?

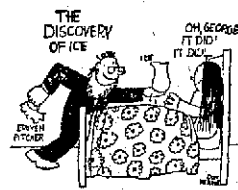

New York financiers are figuring how to keep gold in the country. We have an idea one way would be to let some of it out into the pockets of the people.

Physicians are figuring John D. Rockefeller may live to be a hundred years old. How long they are figuring out a hunk of his billion dollars is not stated.

True it is that harsh words pay no dividends.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

ICE

George Ice, that indefatigable, inventor and dauntless adventurer, covered ice in February of his seventy-ninth year, and it has borne his name ever since, although many people merely think that ice is ice. He was camping on a little lake in Canada, accompanied by his wife, brave little woman that she was. It was his wife and only she, she alone, who shared the hardships of that winter with George Ice, and who, also, shared his joy the morning he found ice in the water pitcher.

He had often said to her: "Martha, I have the theory that if the weather gets cold enough and if we set the water pitcher on the back stoop, the water will become solid, and manageable, as it were."

"And we will call it 'Ice,'" she said, encouragingly, though George Ice paid little attention to that remark, for it was not fame that he sought in the world.

He knew the inconvenience of water in a house, uncollected state. It required basins, etc. "Water is so unhandy," he said to his wife. "I see no reason that water should not be solidified so that it can be picked up without the aid of a bucket." Night after night he put the water pitcher on the back stoop.

One night it froze. His wife heard him shouting with joy. It had been a hard winter. They had been hounded in by snow and ice. It was terrible. But George would come north, to test his theory. When she heard him shout she wondered if, at last, their sufferings were to be rewarded. Soon he came into the bedroom carrying a broken pitcher in one hand and a perfect replica of the pitcher, intact, in the other. "Now the nations can skate," cried George, as he handed his wife the world's first hunk of ice.

"It strikes me it is quite similar to the stuff we have been walking on in the lake the past two months," said his wife.

"Oh, no, quite different, quite different," said George, wrapping up a corner he had clipped off the hunk, preparatory to sending it to the patent office at Washington.

BedTime Tales

By Clara Ingram Judson

Ned was nine, Molly was seven and Jane was five, and they all three lived together in a beautiful little house at the end of the street and had just as good times as any little boy of nine or girl of seven or five could possibly want to have. And they didn't quarrel—well, at least they didn't quarrel often, and never very seriously.

But this summer it seemed as though nobody ever and the work they wanted to do. For of course they helped Mother and did their part about tidying up the yard and garden. If Mother told Ned to sweep the walk and Molly to empty the waste baskets and Jane to water the nasturtiums, Ned was sure to want an indoor job, Molly longed to work outside and Jane wanted to sort over the papers she might want to save for cutting before the waste baskets were emptied.

Mother was quite discouraged about ever getting anybody the job they most wanted to do. And then, one morning when the weather was the very hottest and it was no easy matter to work, even if you liked your job, she happened to have a bright idea.

"I'll tell you what we can do, children," she said, just as soon as Father had left for his work, "I will number all the jobs that have to be done today. I'll write a little ticket for each number and I'll make a list of the jobs and hang it here on the door. Then we can all draw a number and see what we will do first."

"You mean you will play, too?" asked the children, for you see, games were a lot more fun if Mother played too.

"To be sure I will," laughed Mother. "You call them all out now, and I'll write out the list and make the number-tickets."

So they all four set to work. Mother wrote down "clear off table, brush up dining-room, make beds, sweep walks, straighten porch, dust living room, water flowers, empty waste baskets."

"There!" she said gaily, "that's enough to start with, and now I'll write the number tickets!" So she wrote, "one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight"—each word on a separate ticket, and she shook them all up in an empty cup and everybody drew two tickets.

"You mean you will play, too?" asked the children, for you see, games were a lot more fun if Mother played too

Such fun as it was to hunt up the job from the number and to see what there was to do first. Mother had to wait the flowers—a job she had never had time to do in the morning. Ned brushed up the dining-room, while Molly cleared off the table and Jane straightened the porch and then everybody started on their second job.

They found numbering jobs such a jolly way to get work done that they did it every morning all the rest of the vacation. Try it at your house some day and see if it doesn't turn out fun for all!

NEW-YORK-DAY-BY-DAY

O-O-MEINTYRE.

New York, July 28.—This little letter appeared among the letters to the editor of a great New York newspaper:

"We are two poor widows, willing to work, but can not get anything to do, as we are advanced in years. We suggest that we get a hand organ, and make a living that way. Will you kindly tell us how to go about it and where to apply for same?"

A reporter scenting a sob story, started in pursuit of the two widows. He found them. They were living in one room over a Bovey store. One was 76 and the other 79 years of age.

Fifteen years ago they lived in the fashionable section of lower Fifth avenue. They had their own carriages, their own servants and were living a quiet and peaceful life of plenty.

And then the war came along. Stocks that represented their modest fortunes were swept away. They were penniless, but they were proud and so they moved over to the East Side where no one knew them and they tried to get something to do—but they were too old for any kind of labor.

Before the reporter left, he was asked not to mention their names. The reporter told his city editor the story and he also agreed mercifully not to write a story about them. A subscription, unbeknown to the old ladies, was taken up among their old friends. They will be sent to a home for old people where they will be taken care of comfortably for the rest of their lives.

If you are interested in the latest things in songs, here are two that they are whistling on Broadway: "Ireland Must Be Heaven For My Mother Came From There" and "Moonshine Sally." The latter is being sung by George MacFarlane, who never lived in Kentucky in his life. Heigh ho!

The dance craze seems to have died down and then flared up again. I watched some new dances in Churchill's, Rector's and the Montmartre the other evening. There is a new twist to a one-step which seems to be quite popular. It is a simple little thing and consists in running to one side for several steps and then pivoting into a deep dip. I thought I could do it. A friend introduced me to a demure young thing who was a professional. After two turns around the floor, she asked me if I liked the floor.

"It is fine, very smooth indeed," I replied.

"Well," said she, "why don't you stay on it?" I have given up dancing for the season. It is not worth the embarrassment it costs.

Some people simply cannot remain neutral. There, for instance, is the scion of an English family who caught a large German carp near Princeton, N. J. After his catch he said hatefully: "The German carp is a loquacious, loathsome amphibian. No fish can live in the same water with him. They are the fresh water hog. After eating everything in a pond they'll climb out, wiggle over the fields and milk the cows."

That is carrying the Daily Hate too far, indeed!

When the body of a suicide came hurtling through the air from the tenth floor of the Biltmore the other day, an automobile containing six people was grazed. The driver stopped his car with the emergency brake and looked back. What he saw so unnerved him, that he was unable to drive his passengers home.

This same driver, a Frenchman, is home from the war zone on a furlough and confessed that he had slept with maimed bodies all about him, but he expected it over there—and this in the heart of a peaceful city was quite different. This is the second suicide from the Biltmore recently. A former manager of the hotel leaped from the roof to the courtyard about two years ago.

The Menace

As careful as I am, I can not guard myself against the fool; The wild and wholly reckless man, Indifferent to every rule. I may proceed with utmost care And watch for jolts and sudden bumps But I'm in danger everywhere So long as cars are run by chumps.

There is no law to guarantee The safety of a man or child So long as fools are running free And motor-like demons wild. Tho' thousands drive their autos well They're menaced by the reckless few.

For no man living here can tell Just what the fool is apt to do.

I write it from experience, 'Tis not myself I have to fear; It is the lack of common sense That marks a lot of drivers here. The strictest rules I may obey To guard against all accident Yet I'm in danger every day. The fool I cannot circumvent.—Detroit Free Press.

CYCLONE HITS PART OF COUNTY; WHEELERSBURG AND BUENA VISTA WERE IN PATH OF THE STORM

Lightning Hits; Barns Leveled; Stock Killed; Damage Is Considerable

A high velocity wind, accompanied by blinding flashes of lightning and gusts of hail, originating somewhere above Wheelersburg, Ohio Valley, and traveling westward, did considerable damage Thursday afternoon. The storm was eccentric in many ways. It seemed to bound up, pass over several miles of territory, then settle to the ground again, flattening fields of corn and damaging houses. At Wheelersburg the storm did considerable damage, leveling trees, blowing down barns and outbuildings and destroying crops. Leaving this village, it seemed to rise, pass over Portsmouth without doing much damage, returning near Buena Vista and subsiding near Sandy Springs.

Lightning struck a barn belonging to John Hansen, Waits Station. Howard and Stephen, brothers, who were in the structure, narrowly escaped death. A mule and a calf were killed. The barn was destroyed with several thousand dollars loss. The home of Robert Kress, Buena Vista, was struck. A large chimney was partially destroyed. Flying bricks narrowly missed George Spencer.

Young Cyclone Hits Buena Vista
A twisting young cyclone struck Buena Vista Thursday afternoon about four thirty o'clock, according to Nate B. Gilliland, candidate for probate judge, on the Republican ticket, who was in that village Thursday campaigning and did considerable damage. Several shanties and small woodsheds collapsed; roofs were blown from houses and tall corn was laid flat against the ground where the cyclone struck.

Mr. Gilliland says that Fitzhugh Lee, this city; Squire James Pitt and himself took shelter in a barn belonging to Robert Kress when the threatening clouds gathered over the village, and from an open door watched the storm culminate. It seemed as if a funnel shaped cloud assembled in the east, Mr. Gilliland says, and traveled with great rapidity toward the village. Gusts of wind went before with small showers of rain. When the odd shaped cloud struck the village, it raised the roof from the Kress barn. Mr. Gilliland says, and carried it several hundred feet before it was deposited.

A sharp bolt of lightning struck the Kress home while the party were huddled in the roofless barn, knocking a portion of the chimney off. One of the falling bricks narrowly missed striking George Spencer.

Following in the path of destruction was a sheet of rain and hail. Some of the hail stones were large as hickory nuts, Mr. Gilliland says. Damage Is Considerable

Mrs. J. H. Ryan, resident of Buena Vista, when called Friday morning, stated that the cyclone which struck that village Thursday afternoon did several thousand dollars worth of damage. "It would be hard to estimate the damage," Mrs. Ryan said.

As far as can be learned, the storm started near the George W. Hickman farm, about a half mile east of the village. As it traveled westward, it gathered velocity, and seemed to rise and bounce along the rolling ground like a rubber ball, those who saw it say.

Fields of growing corn were crushed to the earth. "The fields in the path of the storm," Mrs. Ryan says, "looks like someone run a roller over the corn. What was not flattened out by the storm was badly damaged by the heavy hail that followed. The hail stones cut many of the plants in to ribbons."

A large number of windows in Buena Vista were broken. Most every house had one or more broken window, after the storm subsided, Mrs. Ryan says. The German Methodist church suffered slight damage. All of the windows were broken and portions of the roof were destroyed. As the storm traveled westward it expanded, crossing the river saved. Young Hansen was unconscious nearly an hour after being saved from burning to death by his brother. The barn was but a short distance from the house, and the fact that the wind was blowing in the opposite direction from the house is all that saved it from catching fire. The Hansen farm is three-quarters of a mile from the B. & O. S.W. Waits station railroad station.

Lucasville Is Missed
Citizens living at Lucasville reported that the heavy wind storm missed that vicinity. There was a light wind Thursday afternoon, but no rain.

Worst Storm In "Dogwood" History
Wesley Shela, farmer of Dogwood Ridge, said that it was the worst storm ever heard of in that part of the county. A barn door was torn from the Shela barn, a second roof on a chicken coop was torn off, and large limbs were torn from trees on different parts of the farm. All of Mr. Shela's blackberries were destroyed, and all his corn consisting of two and one-half acres was laid low.

Garage Is Destroyed
The wind also showed its force on the John Messer farm on Dogwood Ridge. The Messer farm joins the Shela farm. A new frame garage on the Messer farm was blown to bits by the strong wind. Some of the large pieces of wood were carried 250 feet. The top of the new Ford touring car in the garage was badly damaged. The emergency brakes were set on the car, but the wind moved the car four feet. Several chickens were killed by the pieces of wood from the garage. A large barn 100 feet by 50 feet was moved a few inches, but not off its foundation. Eight acres of field corn belonging to Messer were destroyed.

Large trees in the wooded parts of the two farms were blown down.

Duis Barn Is Damaged
The storm did considerable damage to one of the barns on John Duis' farm near Wheelersburg. One end of it was blown out and the roof was damaged considerably. Five apple trees were also blown down. Mr. Duis stated this morning that it was one of the most destructive storms that has ever visited that section.

Barn Is Blown Down
A barn on the George Reif farm near Wheelersburg was in the path of the storm and it was blown down. Its dimensions were 75 by 40. The barn is now owned by Harry W. Miller and George E. Krieger, of this city.

Wheelersburg In Storm's Path
Wheelersburg was directly in the path of the storm, which at one time seemed to center its destructive fury in that village. When the storm subsided telephone wires were down. Main street in the village was literally strewn with limbs of trees, one big tree in front of the J. C. McCoy home had been leveled and damage was in evidence on all sides as a result of the storm. The wind whipped and slashed its way through that section and much corn was blown down and damage was entailed to growing crops.

Teamster Knocked Down By Lightning
A bolt of lightning struck the John L. Miller barn near Wheelersburg during the storm and Charles Stout, a teamster, was knocked down and badly shocked. He is employed by John Duis, of Wheelersburg and had driven his team into the barn for shelter. The barn was only slightly damaged.

Ironton Escapes But Is Isolated
Ironton, O., July 28.—A terrific storm that swept through the middle west last evening, approached Lawrence county's western border and then veered off, cutting Ironton and this immediate section of the tri-state region off its path. However, it wrought havoc with the telephone and telegraph lines, east and west, north and south of Ironton, and the Ironton was completely cut off from the outside world and unable to secure even a small portion of its usually liberal daily report of telegraphic events.

BREMEN

New York, July 28.—Another circumstantial report regarding the whereabouts of the German Merchant super-submarine Bremen, long expected at some American port, is that the ship has been captured by British patrolling squadrons and is today tied up in the northwest arm of the harbor of Halifax, N. S.

The report of the capture, which is published here today, is given in a letter said to have been written by the secretary of a high Canadian official to a business man of this city. The letter is declared to have been mailed from Buffalo, New York, two days ago and therefore could not have been subjected to the scrutiny of the Canadian censor.

The letter was written in confidence, it is stated, but the information it contained was divulged by the recipient to a friend in the course of an argument as to whether or not the Bremen could pass through the British barrier. The letter says:

"You seem in New York to be worried about the Bremen. There is really no cause for worry, for at the present time she is tied up in what we call the Northwest arm in the Harbor of Halifax and is being well taken care of."

Telegrams of inquiry sent to Ottawa and Halifax have not as yet brought any information of the reported capture of the merchant submarine.

The Bremen, the second unit of Germany's proposed merchant submarine fleet, has been due for some days in an American port. Private information was to the effect that she had been ordered to make New York harbor, if possible, but in the event that this was not feasible she was to go to any other American port that presented a favorable opportunity for entrance.

Eight Coal Cars Are Derailed At Sciotoville; Train Rider Is Blamed

Eight cars loaded with coal attached to westbound N. & W. freight No. 1443, in charge of Engineer Ernest Kidd and Conductor David Bush, were derailed and one smashed to pieces one mile east of Sciotoville, at 12:01 Friday morning. Traffic on this division was practically at a standstill until 2:45 this morning because of the wreck. Passenger train No. 4, arriving here from Columbus at 11:50, was held here on account of the smashup. It is believed that the derailment resulted from a trespasser turning an angle cock on one of the cars.

The wrecking crew from East Portsmouth cleared up the wreckage. Coal was strewn all along the N. & W. tracks in the vicinity of the wreck.

The Pepper Vine.
The most common and widely used of all spices is pepper. It is a native of the East Indies, but is now cultivated in various parts of the tropical belt of this hemisphere. The plant is a climber and has a smooth stem sometimes twelve feet long. The fruit is about the size of a pea and when ripe is of a bright red color. In cultivation the plant is supported by poles. In some localities small trees are used instead of poles, for the best pepper is grown in a certain degree of shade.

Oil of the Porpoise.
The porpoises killed in winter are the fattest and produce most oil. The largest size measure about seven feet in length, five feet in girth and weigh about 300 pounds. Such a porpoise yields from six to seven gallons of oil. The blubber of a big porpoise weighs about 100 pounds and is one and a half inches thick in summer and two in winter. The jaws of the porpoise yield a superior quality of oil. When hung up in the sun it readily drips away into cans provided for the purpose, the quantity of oil thus procured, however, being not more than half a pint to the jaw. The oil from the blubber gives an excellent light.

"And what is that?"
"They never pretend to be selling out below cost."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

United Praise Given County Officials By State Examiners

S. D. Eckhart, county auditor, was highly complimented upon the efficient and able manner in which he has performed the duties of office, in the annual report of E. K. Parrott and George L. Thompson, State Auditing Department.

"The records of this office," says the report, "have been kept in an excellent manner, both as to neatness and subject matter. All are fully indexed."

Concerning the inspection of the affairs of the deputy state supervisors of election, the report says: "The minutes and records of this office are well kept and show all of the official acts of the board, including the allowance of bills and pay rolls." This board is composed of Charles A. Schirmann, John Inman, William West, Albert Pyles, J. R. Distel, clerk, and J. P. Johnley, assistant clerk.

"The following finding was made in the inspection of the office of probate judge: 'The records required by law are neatly and properly kept in this office. Much improvement is noted in the financial accounting since the last examination, every suggestion then made by your examiners having been fully followed out by Judge Thomas C. Beatty.' "The record of accrued fees which has never before been kept, is now maintained in full conformity to the instructions of the department." "The sheriff's cash book," declares the report, "was carefully checked from all original sources of receipts and additions verified." "The book is kept in a most excellent manner in the form prescribed by this department and in appearance and accuracy is a credit to the office and the bookkeeper."

Unidentified Man Killed At Hanging Rock; Was Trespasser

An unidentified man evidently fell from an N. & W. west-bound freight train last night at Hanging Rock and was killed, the wheels completely cutting his body in twain, this morning's Ironton Irononian says.

The entire N. & W. railway system was tied up for over an hour, until Mayor Joseph Kinkaid, of Hanging Rock, examined the body, after it was learned that Coroner O. U. O'Neill was out of the city on business. Undertaker Gholson and Sons then took the remains in charge and will hold them at their mortuary parlors pending identification.

The man was white, and was evidently Irish. He is thought to have gone to sleep on the train and then to have fallen between the cars to his death.

The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock, a few yards below the N. & W. tower house at Hanging Rock.

No Further Application On Behalf Of Casement

London, July 28.—When the court of criminal appeal met today to hear "a possible application" in behalf of Roger Casement, who was sentenced to death for treason in connection with the recent Dublin uprising, it was found that the defense had abandoned any contemplated action.

Arthur Powell, who had been engaged to argue the appeal in the House of Lords, if the attorney general's fiat had been obtained, said the prisoner's counsel never had intended to make the application and that the court had been so informed a few days ago.

Complaint Investigated; Remedied By Contractor

Fire Chief George Koerner was called to The Point, in the West Glen property as reported, to complain that a generic mixer being used by Contractor James McDaniels on the flood wall job was too near a house and that sparks from it were endangering property.

Chief Koerner found that the machine was not as close to the West Glen property as reported. To ward off all further complaints, Contractor McDaniels had an additional cut to the snake stack, which caused the sparks to carry far over the property. McDaniels is doing the work for S. Monroe and Sons.

Has Designed Burner

Richard F. McGowan, former Portsmouth boy, is in the city on business and to visit his father, William McGowan, who was at one time a Portsmouth policeman.

R. F. McGowan is selling the McGowan Smokeless Fire Box Burner, designed by himself. He has just installed a number of the burners in Columbus, his headquarters.

Work Progressing Rapidly

Work on the new $1,000,000 blast furnace the Whitaker-Glessner company is building on the site of the Idlewild Addition is progressing rapidly. Sheridan and Kirk, local contractors have a big force of men on the grading preparatory to beginning work on the foundation. Work on this improvement is to continue uninterrupted through the winter months.

Mr. Edwards, former Portsmouth baseball player, has been called to his home in Mineral City from Rocky Mount, N. C., by the sudden death of his aged mother, Mrs. Thomas Edwards.

Mr. Edwards will join his wife and little daughter, "Jimmy," here and go to Mineral City Friday to attend the funeral.
